

Stanford Heart Patient Placed on Critical List

Cause of Bleeding Unknown

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Steelworker Mike Kasperak was listed in critical condition today 36 hours after undergoing an operation which transplanted the heart of a 43-year-old woman into his breast.

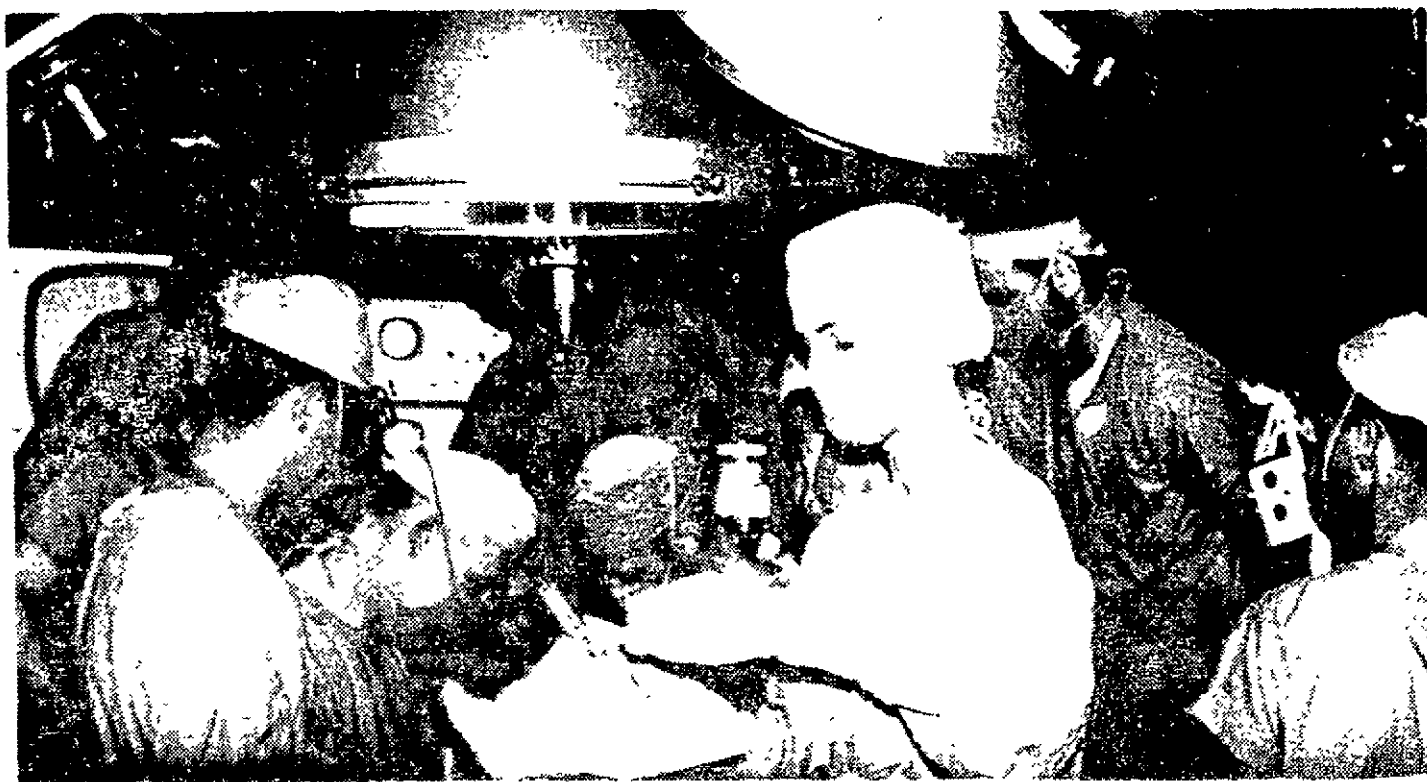

Surgeons at Stanford University School of Medicine said this afternoon that Kasperak, who received the new heart in a 4½-hour operation Saturday night, was bleeding from the stomach and bowels. Surgeons would not speculate on the cause of bleeding.

Earlier today, doctors had said that, while Kasperak was unable to talk because of a tube through his mouth to help him breathe, he could understand questions and comments, and nurses could lip-read his responses.

Kasperak, 54, was dying of heart disease Saturday when Dr. Norman E. Shumway's surgical team at Stanford University School of Medicine cut out his heart and implanted Mrs. Virginia White's. The Santa Clara woman had died two hours earlier after a stroke.

Shumway said his patient knew he had a donated heart beating in his chest. It was one-third the size of the enlarged one that had been discarded.

Blood pressure, pulse and body temperature were in a reasonable range, Dr. Donald C. Harrison, a cardiologist, told a

No Longer in Oxygen Tent

Blaiberg Near Critical Period

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Grootte Schuur Hospital said in a medical bulletin today that Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's third heart transplant patient, "is no longer in the oxygen tent and will be allowed to sit up in bed today with his feet on a chair."

The 58-year-old retired dentist neared what doctors consider to be the beginning of the critical postoperative period—seven days after surgery. However, the bulletin said there were no signs yet that Blaiberg's body was trying to reject the heart of Clive Haupt, 24, who died of a brain hemorrhage.

Haupt's heart was grafted into Blaiberg last Tuesday by Dr. Christiana Barrard, who also performed the landmark heart transplant operation last month on Louis Washkansky. Washkansky died of pneumonia 18 days after the operation.

Infection Not Evident

No infection is evident in any of Blaiberg's organs so far, the hospital said. His wife, Eileen, was to see him again today but to guard against infection she was expected to speak to him once more through a glass door.

Mrs. Blaiberg said of her first visit with her husband Sunday: "He was looking too wonderful for words. He joked all the time and was very talkative." She added that he looked as healthy as he had five years ago, before his diseased heart began making him look sickly.

The dentist is now on an ordinary diet, but all his food is prepared on a special cooker and sterile utensils are used, the hospital said.

Barnard sent his congratulations to his classmate from the University of Minnesota, Dr. Norman E. Shumway, who performed the world's fourth heart transplant operation at Stanford University Saturday night.

In an interview with the National Broadcasting Corp. shown Saturday night in the United States, Barnard disclosed that arthritis in his hands may limit or even end his surgical career. He said the arthritis has been with him ever since his days as a student in America in the 1950s.

Although he takes drugs for the condition, he said, "my hands are still swollen and my joints are slightly swollen." The painful condition is a stimulus to bear down on his surgery now, Barnard said. "Because I don't know when I'll be completely stopped from doing surgery as a result of the arthritis."

Twins Progressing In Johannesburg, m.c.a.n. while, good progress was reported in another pioneering surgical feat, the separation of Siamese twins at the forehead. The twins—3-month-old girls born two weeks prematurely—were taken off the danger list today at the Johannesburg Children's Hospital and a bulletin said they "continue to make good progress."

The twins, Catherine and Shirley O'Hare, were separated Saturday in a five-hour operation. The hospital said they "spent a comfortable and restful night and are now on full normal feeds. Both children are moving their heads and reacting in a normal manner."

It added that "they cry justly when they are hungry and now behave in the usual manner of children their age."

If the girls survive, it is believed the operation will be recorded as the first in which Siamese twins joined at the forehead have been successfully separated.

Viet Cong Hold Provincial Capital Near Saigon 3 Hours

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas seized a provincial capital only 21 miles northwest of Saigon early today and held it for nearly three hours.

The attack on Kheim Cuong, capital of Hau Nghia province, was the second daring raid by Communist troops on a government center close to Saigon in three days.

A government spokesman said about 700 guerrillas stormed Kheim Cuong behind a barrage of several hundred mortar rounds and they "were in the streets."

Three American advisers to the militia force in the town were killed at 3 a.m. and 14 were wounded. One officer said the advisers' compound apparently was a chief target.

325 Elderly Flee Fire in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A dropped match in a pile of newspapers started a fierce fire today that destroyed a converted seven-story hotel occupied by 325 elderly men and women. All were reported evacuated safely.

The flames, fanned by strong winds in 10-degree temperature, roared through the 248-room Normandie Retirement Club with crackling violence, tumbling down brick and stone walls and hurling fiery embers to neighboring buildings.

Nine alarms were sounded, bringing about 500 firemen and 75 pieces of fire equipment to the scene and making a shambles of morning traffic bound for center city.

Fire Marshal John Doyle said the fire started in the second floor room of John Lucy, 77, and was not reported immediately as he sought unsuccessfully to douse the flames by pouring cups of water on it.

The fire marshal said Lucy, unable to sleep, sat in an easy chair by the window and decided to smoke a cigarette. "The match fell from his hand," said Doyle, "and ignited the papers."

He apparently tried to stamp it out and failed, then went to the bathroom for a cup of water, making a few trips before he found the flames were out of his control.

Two policemen driving by noticed smoke coming out the window and notified the night clerk, who sounded the alarm.

Sihanouk Doubts Success

Bowles Arrives For Border Talks

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — U.S. presidential envoy Chester Bowles arrived today to seek Prince Norodom Sihanouk's help in keeping North Vietnam and Viet Cong forces from using Cambodia as a sanctuary. But the Cambodian chief of state in effect told a news conference the American ambassador's mission was doomed.

Sihanouk told newsmen Sunday he would see Bowles, the U.S. ambassador to India. But he suggested that the American envoy would do better to spend his time touring the famous temple ruins at Angkor.

American sources in New Delhi said Bowles would concentrate on the question of Communist Vietnamese troops taking sanctuary in Cambodian border areas. He was expected to seek tacit agreement from Sihanouk to permit pursuit by U.S. forces of Communist troops who attack them in Vietnam and then retreat into Cambodia.

In response to questions submitted by The Associated Press, Sihanouk said Saturday that "we would not intervene militarily if a fight between Americans and infiltrated Vietnamese, therefore one as much at fault as the other, took place in the outlying and uninhabited regions of our territory."

But the prince told the news conference Sunday he would not allow U.S. forces to pursue the Viet Cong into Cambodia and would condemn both sides if they clashed on his soil.

Fowler Says Tax Hike Might Not be So Large

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler has opened the door a crack—just a little crack—to the possibility the administration will seek a tax hike lower than the 10 per cent it unsuccessfully sought in the last session of Congress.

"I am aware of some discussion of whether or not 8 per cent would be adequate or 6 per cent would be adequate," Fowler said Sunday. He added he would reserve judgement until the House Ways and Means Committee resumes hearings Jan. 22 on President Johnson's tax plans.

In the first session of the 90th Congress, Johnson's 10 per cent surcharge bill died in the committee. Fowler said his "current inclination" is that the 10 per cent originally requested "is good insurance to have."

Fowler has said a tax hike would improve the nation's financial standing and help reduce the $3.5 billion balance-of-payments deficit.

He said the Vietnam war is responsible for about $1.5 billion of the deficit but rejected a suggestion that the dollar drain would force the United States to curtail military commitments overseas.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called Sunday for the withdrawal of four of the six divisions of U.S. troops in Europe in order to reduce overseas spending and thus, he said, strengthen the dollar.

The United States is spending $1.5 billion to $2 billion a year to maintain forces in Western Europe, said Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee.

Fowler appeared on CBS "Face the Nation" and Proxmire spoke on Metromedia's "Opinion: Washington."

Knowles Has No '68 Plans for Legislature

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau MADISON — No special session of the Legislature will be called in 1968 to deal with traffic safety problems, Gov. Warren P. Knowles said today.

Speaking at a morning press conference, Knowles ended speculation that he might call a special session of the 1967 Legislature to deal with traffic safety problems left unsolved when legislators recessed in December.

"If the lawmakers want to return they can call themselves into session," Knowles said. The Legislature recessed until January, 1969.

Knowles said his office would work with those sections of a traffic safety package he won from the Legislature before the recess. He also plans to emphasize special education programs this year in an effort to deal with mounting highway death tolls, he said.

Knowles said the most pressing problems left untouched by the Legislature are those caused by drunken drivers and by "beer islands" scattered throughout Wisconsin.

The state needed an implied consent law and a common beer age for youths, he suggested by again supporting his original proposals. The Legislature refused to enact both provisions, but wrote into law driver education advances, an increase in the State Highway Patrol and a spot motor vehicle inspection plan.

Knowles hailed those gains. He reported he would create a special roving committee of citizens and state experts to investigate the causes of fatal accidents during the coming year in greater depth.

Included will be studies of emotional factors and driver's psychology, Knowles said.

of which were successful, were given 47 per cent chances.

Surveyor 7's target area is only 12 miles in diameter whereas previous Surveyor target areas were 37 miles wide. A Jet Propulsion lab spokesman said the spacecraft is aimed at a "relatively smooth but still damned rough" piece of terrain.

The unmanned flight is to be the last lunar mission before man makes the trip, perhaps next year.

Israel Jets Silence Jordanian Guns

TEL AVIV Israel (AP) — Israeli jet fighters screamed across the Jordan River today to silence Jordanian artillery which opened up on Israeli settlements in the tense Beisan Valley, an army spokesman announced here.

The planes were called into action after an artillery battle raged across the river for three hours, stopped for half an hour and erupted again when Jordanian artillery began pounding Kfar Ruppin and Hadz Hayyim in the valley, the spokesman added.

The Jordanians charged the Israelis started the shooting, which took place as U.N. emissary Gunnar Jarring discussed a Middle East settlement with the Jordan government in Amman.

Major Puts Zip Into Air Force Assignment

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Air Force Maj. Ken Anderson found a loophole in the secrecy that surrounded his new assignment.

The major, being transferred from Beale Air Force Base, was told his destination was classified and could not be disclosed. He noted that his orders included the postal zip code for his new base, checked the zip code directory at the post office, and found he was headed for Da Nang, South Vietnam.

High Style Determined by 'Cut' of Clothes

Miss Waller Plans to Wed

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Only a catty female judges the age of another woman, but the age of her clothes are fair game.
By the close Sunday night of the style previews held for fashion editors by the New York Couture Group the scores were well established for scoring at a glance the fashion age of a lady's costume.
Try this test:
1. Does the skirt swing? Give the girl a plus for gathers, gores, pleats—boxed, knife and fan—and give her nowheresville for the shift or sheath.
2. Are her knees rosy? Then she has hiked her hemline above the knees for daytime. She's au courant, even though she may be a midi or a maxi hemline advocate, she won't as yet wear these lengths until after the sun goes down this year.
Where's the Waist?
3. Does she have a waist? Though it may be larger than it was before she began to wear tents two years ago, she has it back again, if she's fashion-conscious. Belts, sashes and tucks tell it's there.
4. Are her sleeves midlength? For shame. If she is with it, she will wear wrist length sleeves or none at all.
5. Is her head woolly as a kewpie doll's? Never mind last year's straight boyish look. Never mind the curlers at the breakfast table. She's up to date with her hair style.
6. Is her dress black? Careful this question is tricky. Give her points if she's under 40. Subtract points if she wears black for day and is past that age. It does nothing to improve her coloring.

7. Does she wear white for night? She's an angel, from the fashion designer's point of view. Score her high.
8. Does she wear high heels and pointed toes? She should go to the bottom of the fashion class. She can redeem herself by wearing platform soles, preferably contrasted in color to the shoe itself. Or she can wear squat pumps with bright-colored sculptured heels.
9. Do her supporters show? She is an utter failure. Somebody should tell her that every woman wears panty hose—patterned, net, lace or opaque—under her high riding short skirts.
Romantic Ruffles
10. Does the space age bore her? It's the thing to be ho-hum about the hard chic of courage and romanticize from the fashion point of view about the Gibson girl or the Civil War. She wears ruffles galore. If she is not the rebel type, don't take off points if she chooses to mimic the '30s of Bonnie and Clyde instead. That's in, too.
11. Does she wear hats? Give her half a point if they are pin-sized. Score her well, though if they are so large she must assume a sideways angle to get through a door.
12. Does she have a classic skirt? If it is belted, with a burgeoning skirl, it could be this year's. And yet it could easily be 10 years old. As a style it wears well, so better give the wearer the benefit of the doubt.
Another press preview, American Designer Series, arranged by Eleanor Lambert, began Sunday and will continue through Friday.

Mrs. Robert Stillings led panelists in discussion before the annual meeting of the Outagamie County Mental Health Association, Thursday evening. To her left is Albert Neal, Lawrence University faculty member. Seated to her right are Kenneth Venderbush, moderator and past president, and Dr. Allan Belden, psychiatrist.

Baking Soda Survives As Time-Tested Remedy

In the old days medical supplies consisted of tallow, goose grease, turpentine, coal oil, sulphur and molasses, baking soda, liniment for man or beast, onion juice, garlic juice and a big bottle of camphor and calomel.

Also pressed into service when sickness struck were the steam kettle, the hot brick and the long Johns. One survivor of the list is baking soda, and, strangely enough, as medical knowledge has grown, so, too, has soda's uses.

Some of the oldest of these uses, which have withstood competition from modern day pills, evolve around the common cold. . . which is right at its peak this month and next. At the first sign of a snuffle, grandma would dole out her favorite remedy, a half teaspoon of baking soda in a half glass of water. This is still common practice. People are reminded, however, to see their physician when a cold or flu persists.

Add Lemon Juice

An added refinement, now that lemons are plentiful and available everywhere, is to add the juice of a fresh lemon to this concoction. If you're ingenious you'll go one step further to make the treatment a treat for small fry. Add a teaspoon of honey or maraschino cherry juice, or supply fruit-flavored candy stick straws so that it can be sipped up soda-style.

Also of long standing is the baking soda gargle, a half teaspoon of soda mixed in a glass of warm water. Doctors recommend it because it's so gentle to irritated throat membranes. No matter how sore the throat it never stings or burns.

Of more recent origin is the recommendation that a half teaspoon of soda in a half glass of water be taken after aspirin when a cold strikes. The soda not only speeds up the aspirin's action, but also wards off nausea, a common problem among aspirin takers.

No Sure Cure

Since there's still no known sure-fire cure for a cold, and since regardless of how or with what you treat it, it will be around for seven days, why not save money with the old tried

Baking Soda Is the Sole Survivor among grandma's remedies for a cold. Oddly enough, as medical knowledge has increased, so have the uses for this product.

County Mental Health Group Focuses on Public Education

"Our association reminds me of a group of untrained bystanders running around madly with a great deal of concern at the scene of a large catastrophe," Dr. Belden, the third member of the panel and a newcomer to the group, praised the group treatment on an individual basis to solving mental problems.

So stated Albert Neal, Lawrence University faculty member and one of three panelists who aired his ideas before members of the Outagamie County Mental Health Association Thursday evening at the Lou Calder Student Center-Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Mr. Neal's statement typified the critical interest shared by the estimated 25 people who attended the organization's annual meeting marking the introduction of new officers of the United Givers Agency.

Mr. Kenneth Venderbush, past president and moderator of the program, opened the annual meeting with a summarization of the achievements of the association since it was founded in the county in 1952.

Recent Changes

Touching upon the highlights of the development of the organization, Mr. Venderbush stressed recent changes designed to strengthen and unite the group behind redefined goals. Recruiting community support in the interest of promoting better mental health received major emphasis as the primary aim of the association.

"We would like to do more, but it takes manpower and money," stated Mrs. Robert Stillings, leader of the panel. In a speech prepared as an integral part of the group's 1968 promotion program, Mrs. Stillings pointed to the high rate of suicides, divorce, and crime as indications of the mental breakdown from which our society is suffering.

Preventive Medicine

Prevention is the only answer, if we are ever to catch up and solve the problems of mental and emotional illness," was the firm pronouncement of Mrs. Stillings.

She added, "There are not really enough trained people to go around, and our understanding of what needs to be done is rather primitive, and our will to do it rather weak."

In an attempt to remedy the situation, the association has instituted a series of seminars to stimulate community action in specific problem areas. Last spring, the seminar brought elementary teachers and members together to discuss the behavior of primary school children. This year the association plans to meet with high school students.

The couple plans an Aug. 17 wedding.

Expressing the hope that the coming year will see the cause of mental health advanced, Ken Venderbush passed the gavel to the association's new president, Don Severson. He will be assisted by vice president, John Peckham; secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Venderbush and treasurer, Mrs. John Mielke.

Members of the board of directors for 1968 are Mrs. Wilbur Kositzke, Mrs. Gordon McIntyre, John Peckham, Albert Neal, the Rev. Art Galore is a booming new boutique business started in provincial Guildford, England, by a former London advertising man, Michael Papirnik. The group has 3,000 agents for its dresses and novelties that range all the way from shoulder holsters for cigarettes and pillow cases printed with pictures of pop singers to just plain old mini dresses. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)

Secret Agents Spread Fads and Fashions For England's Latest Boutique Success

By NADEANE WALKER
Associated Press Writer
GUILDFORD, England (AP) — Way-out fashion has become a cottage industry.

In this Surrey county town, 30 miles from the glitter and glamour of Carnaby Street and Chelsea, housewives in 40 cottages are busily stitching cat suits, over mini dresses, silver-foil capes and the latest gangster styles. All will be labeled "Art Galore," other countries—including and shipped all over the world.

It's all part of a be-your-own-boutique fashion revolution and started this year by a former up to date," Papirnik claims, for London advertising man, Michael Papirnik invited sign sketches and reports of girls interested in fashion to become agents for his direct-sales business by paying three shillings (36 cents) for a Raggedy Ann poster, sticking it on the wall, and taking orders on a 10 per cent commission basis.

3,000 Agents
He now has 3,000 agents (200 of them in America) scattered over England, the United States, Canada, Brazil, Germany, Japan, France, Spain and all agents are urged to send sketches and reports of girls interested in fashion to the Surrey headquarters. If a design is accepted, the sender gets a free garment.

With two young designer-assistants, Penny Bone and Sally Parkin, Papirnik keeps a steady stream of air-freight parcels flowing in all directions. "Kids want the new gear while it's still hot," he says.

America Best
"America is our best market, and we have 20 real live agents who are students at San Jose College in California," Papirnik says. "But we have to leave four-inch hems for the United States. They don't go for real minis there."

There's a joke in Carnaby Street that all rag trade tycoons are 29. Papirnik is thirtyish, and guesses that all his customers are under 30. He launched Art Galore by chartering a car on the Guildford to London train and giving a free trip to all who wanted to watch his fashion show en route.

The quiet Surrey countryside might seem an unlikely spot for a booming boutique business, but Papirnik wanted to get away from the pressures of London. Now London comes to him, and Art Galore has become one of the best-known names in the business. "With its Yvonne Arnaud Theater and new university, Guildford is England's up-and-coming provincial center," Papirnik claims.

Visiting Nurses Given National Accreditation

Preliminary accreditation as a community nursing service has been granted to the Appleton Visiting Nurse Association (VNA) by the National League for Nursing, New York.

According to the announcement made by Mrs. James Cowan, president of the VNA board of directors, the accreditation of the nursing service extends through December 1969.

The United Givers agency is one of 129 community nursing services in the nation which have received League accreditation, and one of 3 VNA's in Wisconsin to be so honored. There are 16 visiting nurse associations in the state and 57 home-health agencies.

Detailed Report
Many nursing agencies did not apply for accreditation, said Mrs. Dolores Jollie, R.N., VNA nursing director. She explained that application consisted of a detailed written report covering 30 criteria of organization and administration; program and its relation to community health nursing and total care in the community; adequacy and qualification of staff; evaluation by state agencies, and resources.

She said the VNA's agreement to provide nursing service for the City of Appleton under contract, was one of the programs which proved good coordination with community health resources.

The National league's aim is to improve the quality of community nursing services by granting national recognition to agencies whose nursing services meet certain high standards. Evaluations were made by a national board composed of public health nurse administrators, members of agency governing boards and medical representatives.

Apply for Extension
After the two year period for which this accreditation has been granted, the agency may apply for an extension of preliminary accreditation or for full accreditation. The latter incorporates site visits to agencies as part of the service.

The national league's program of accreditation for community nursing services marks the first such effort. The league is a national voluntary agency composed of nursing service agencies and schools of nursing, and individuals interested in nursing. It also provides accreditation to nursing education programs.

Visiting Nurse Association president, Mrs. James Cowan, hangs the preliminary accreditation as a community nursing service granted to the local United Givers agency by the Na-

Freelance Writer to Teach Course at Fox Valley

NEENAH — Al P. Nelson, freelance writer and teacher from Delafield, will conduct the course, "Creative Writing for Fun and Profit," at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center, in February.

The eight-session, non-credit course will meet on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Feb. 6 through March 26. The class will be limited to 30 students. Reservations may be made at the center.

Mr. Nelson, feature writer and novelist, has been writing in the Wisconsin area since the early 1930's. Among his works is "The Birth of a Nation Story," as told to him by Roy Aitkens. The book tells about the motion picture industry during the years 1905-1918.

Mr. Nelson teaches and believes in stern self-discipline for the writer. He regularly spends mornings writing and afternoons doing research, a practice which has rewarded him with an enviable file containing thousands of entries on local, state and national topics.

A graduate of the Marquette University School of Journalism, Milwaukee, Mr. Nelson worked as a newspaper reporter, pub-

Opening lead — ♠ 4

South's bidding showed a three suited hand, which made it easy for West to see that a trump opening lead was the best defense. East took the ace of trumps and returned a trump.

South cashed the top diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy and led the king of hearts to get rid of a club. West took the ace of hearts and led another trump to take the last trump out of the dummy.

Declarer could get rid of another club on the queen of hearts, but he still had to lose one trick in each suit. He thus managed to make only his part-score contract of three spades.

Jump to Game

When the hand was played in the open team championship last month, during the national tournament in New Orleans, most experts jumped to four spades on the South hand without bothering to bid the clubs. In all of these cases West made the normal opening lead of a low club.

This lead enabled South to make game. He took the club ace, cashed the top diamonds, ruffed a diamond and led the king of hearts to discard a club. The defenders could take the ace of hearts and a club, followed by the ace of trumps and another trump, but South could ruff another diamond in dummy and throw his last club on the queen of hearts.

If you need a moral, it might be don't pass the buck. When you know enough to make a decision, make it, don't tell or ask more than you need.

Daily Question

Partner opens 1-NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold S-A 9, H-10 9 7 4, D-Q 9 7 2, C-K 10 7. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit of four or more cards if he can. If partner bids hearts, you will jump to four hearts, otherwise you will bid 3-NT at your next turn.

Your Problems
Voluptuous Secretary Only Serves as Window Dressing

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband took an old desk out of the storage room, sanded it down, stained it and varnished it.

Landers

it Sidney was so proud of his handiwork he decided to get rid of his expensive office desk and use the reconditioned one instead.

Last week he hired a photographer to take a picture of him at the desk. With him in the picture is a big-busted, blonde secretary who is taking dictation. She is wearing a miniskirt. At first glance it looks like she is wearing a long blouse and a girdle.

Sidney shows the picture to everyone who comes to his house. He pretends to be showing off his secretary. The men poke each other in the ribs, exchange winks and make suggestive remarks. This annoys me and he knows it, but he does it anyway. Should I insist that he fire the secretary and burn the picture? Your advice will be followed — Undecided.

Dear Un: Don't attach more importance to the miniskirted, magna-busted girl than she deserves. If there was anything to be concerned about, Sidney wouldn't have her photographed and bring the picture home. Forget it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You saved me $15,000 and I want to thank you.

The letter from the mother whose sons kept gouging her for money sounded so much like my boys I was stunned. Perhaps it's the luckiest coincidence of a lifetime that I am a steady reader of your column. My older son borrowed $2,000 from me five years ago and I haven't heard from him since I tried to locate him but he moved and left no forwarding address. Several people have run into him on the street, in theaters and restaurants but no one seems to know where he lives or works.

The younger son and his wife Mary, at the home of Mrs. John never have time for me unless they want a favor. This morning he called, and in a voice dripping with honey, asked if I would lend him $15,000 for a new car and down payment on a larger home.

I said, "Sorry, but I need to hang on to what money I have because nobody is going to take care of me when I am old and broke." He was furious and let me know I was a "lousy mother."

So, thank you, Ann. You are a real friend. — Lousy But Solvent

Dear Solvent: Please continue to read the column. You might pick up some fringe benefits.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The doctor says all my symptoms are due to "nerves." I know he is right. But who wouldn't be nervous after 14 years of sharing a house with in-laws?

My husband and I and our two children have never had a meal alone. I have never been able to do my own grocery marketing or cooking. My mother-in-law has always told me what to do and I have done it to keep the peace.

When we started sharing this house, my husband said it was "temporary" and I believed him. Through the years when ever I have mentioned it's time we got our own place he has said, "We can't afford it and, besides the folks would miss us."

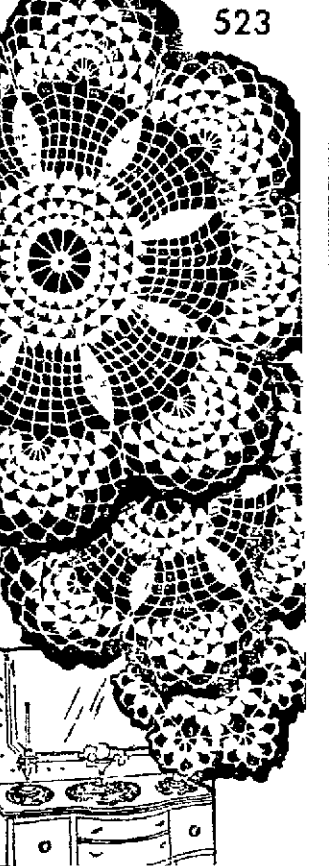

From a cheerful happy-go-lucky person, I have turned into a depressed weeping shrew. Do you have any advice about two families sharing one house? — Nervous Wreck

Dear Wreck: Yes, I do and I have printed it many times. No house is big enough for two families — especially in-laws. Somewhere in this wide, wonderful world there must be an exception to this rule. If anyone out there knows of an exception, cut me in on it will you?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1968)

Rockefeller Facing Problem in Oregon

Friends Tell Him to Stay Off Ballot; Others Fear Nixon Will Win by Inaction

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Monte Rockefeller, the powerful young speaker of the Oregon House of Representatives, has transmitted important private advice to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller so badly to Nixon in New York that could greatly influence the Republican presidential nomination.

Speaker Montgomery's private advice to the Rockefeller camp stay out of Oregon.

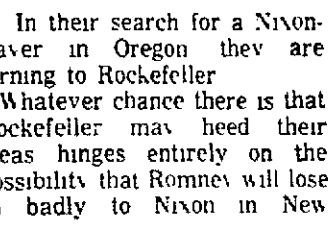

If Rockefeller is to have any chance at the national convention at Miami Beach in August, Montgomery contends, he must remain a non-candidate until then. That requires signing the official non-candidate affidavit to keep his name off the ballot in Oregon's May 28 primary.

As a leading local architect of Rockefeller's victory in the 1964 Oregon primary, Montgomery's word carries no little weight in Albany. Moreover, it coincides exactly with the thinking of Rockefeller and his closest political adviser National Committeeman George Hinman.

Must Challenge Nixon

But it clashes with a growing concern in the Republican party's liberal-to-moderate wing that Richard M. Nixon may go all the way to the nomination unless Rockefeller drops the cloak of non-candidacy and challenges Nixon in Oregon, the primary ground most favorable to Rockefeller.

This view is the direct byproduct of the continued ineptitude of the campaign waged by Gov. George Romney of Michigan and the deceleration of the boom for the right-wing favorite Governor Ronald Reagan of California. The increasing prospect that Nixon will comfortably win the first three primaries (New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Nebraska) is producing panic and storage agent for the nine among the moderates national enter Wisconsin. Monte Rockefeller, chairman for Rockefeller four years ago is head of the state To do otherwise, he holds, would eliminate the surprising amount of good will toward Rockefeller that has cropped up inside the party's right wing. A belated stop Nixon movement led by Rockefeller according to this thesis would only revive the bitter memories of 1964.

Actually, some moderates who want Rockefeller in Oregon see considerations of state politics tainting Montgomery's advice.

As a candidate for secretary of state in a hotly contested primary, Montgomery has been keeping a toe in both the Rockefeller and Reagan camps in Oregon. His professional campaign aide Fred van Natta, is also under contract to the Oregon Citizens for Reagan. Once Rockefeller entered the Oregon race however, Montgomery would have to choose sides.

Nevertheless, there is little doubt that his choice would be at the risk of incurring Nixon's Rockefeller. Contrary to published reports there has been no important drainage of the 1964 Rockefeller forces into the 1968 Reagan operation. Robert Hazen, a Portland savings and

Percy May Enter

This is an advantage no other Nixon challenger possesses. Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, who plans to enter and campaign in the Oregon primary if Rockefeller doesn't, made a good impression on a visit there in November and has private commitments of help from local party officials. But unknown in Oregon he would be a distinct underdog to Nixon.

Nor are Reagan's Oregon prospects nearly so bright as they seemed last September. If Reagan holds to his pledge not to campaign there while permitting his name on the ballot, Nixon would be the favorite.

Thus Rockefeller's dilemma is profound: stay out of Oregon at the risk of incurring Nixon's nomination by inaction? Or enter the race at the risk of shattering his still fragile acceptance as a candidate by the 1968 Reagan operation. Robert Hazen, a Portland savings and

To Your Good Health
Emphysema Removes Lung's Elastic Quality

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor told me I have emphysema. I know experts on this disease who refuse to have anything to do with a patient who won't give up smoking. Why waste time on a patient who won't help himself.

I smoke and my doctor said if I don't stop, I am in for real trouble. He asked me to write to you and read your answer every day for two weeks and he thinks it will help me stop smoking. — R.O.

Dr. Molner

Emphysema (very often combined with bronchitis) is the most rapidly increasing cause of death now known. Patients gradually lose breathing capacity until, huffing and puffing, they don't have the energy to get around any more. Or, because their breathing apparatus has become clogged and congested, they die of an attack of influenza or pneumonia which otherwise they would have thrown off.

I hope your doctor isn't depending too much on my ability to convince you, just looking at the facts squarely should do all the convincing you need. But try reading this every day as he suggests and let me know if it helps you quit smoking.

You might also send for my booklet "How To Control Emphysema." Send 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent.

The booklet points out as I am doing here that when you lack enough breathing capacity because of emphysema, it is foolhardy to waste any of the breath you have on smoke. And besides that smoking irritates the membranes makes both bronchitis and emphysema worse, increases the danger of infection which may merely disable you but also may kill you.

If those reasons, in plain words, won't make you stop smoking what will?

Dear Dr. Molner: I have read about a drug that is supposed to govern the sex of a child, so that if you want a girl, you will have a girl and if you want a boy you will have a boy. Has this theory been proved? — B.H.

No it has not been proved to my knowledge, and I can see the probability of all sorts of new problems if any such drug ever does come along.

Twins' Mothers Name Officers

Newly-elected officers of the Fox Cities Mothers of Twins Club will begin tenure at the group's meeting 8 p.m. Thursday at Sabre Lanes.

Officers are Mrs. Donald Mader, president; Mrs. Donald Dahl, Menasha, vice president; and program chairman Mrs. Richard Allen, secretary; and Mrs. Gerald Zapp, treasurer.

A white elephant sale is planned for the meeting.

Educator's Widow Sues Airline for Crash in Vietnam

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Ruth V. Beattie of Whitewater, Wis., widow of a Wisconsin educator killed in the crash of an Air America plane in South Vietnam last year, filed a $4.2 million suit against the airline recently.

Mrs. Beattie's husband, Arthur, a professor in business economics at Wisconsin-Whitewater State University, was among eight persons killed when the plane crashed March 24 into a mountain north of Da Nang. Beattie and the others were on a government mission to study Vietnamese life.

Mrs. Beattie filed the suit in Circuit Court and asked $1.8 million for herself and $600,000 for each of her four children.

Wisconsin's Medical Training Needs Have Bulky Price Tag

$40 Million Cost for Buildings Alone, Task Force Report Shows

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

The report's message is that of more than $75 million has been tied to a final report of the Governor's Task Force on Medical Education, culminating a 10-month long study of Wisconsin's medical training needs.

Decade-long building costs have been estimated at more than $40 million, with the probability that the figure may not be anywhere near enough.

Accelerated operating costs of more than $7 million a year, more than tripling the present cost to state taxpayers, makes up the rest of the bill.

A doubling of the new students trained by the state's medical schools from the currently in adequate 211 per year to an adequate but average 420 per year in less than a decade has been proposed.

Population Growth

Set in the context of a population growing both older and younger because of medical gains, politicians and planners will find the report an argument in favor of massive commitments in health care training fields as they weigh state assets against society's needs and pressures.

the prospects for other major state programs.

"Medical education is a sacred cow," one commented while the study was being conducted.

"All it has to do is ask for money and it gets it, while we have to fight for every cent for equally vital programs," he said bluntly.

And there are other programs currently underway which many see as equally vital—not the least being the UW campus in Brown and Kenosha counties.

Total Price

As important as the impact of the state's share in such programs is the size of the total price tag placed on the entire package by the task force.

Law Reinforces Rights Of Mental Patients

Periodic Re-Evaluation, Reports to Court Assured in Involuntary Commitment Cases

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — More explicit protection of the rights of hundreds of Wisconsin persons who are involuntarily committed to state and county mental institutions is provided in a new act of the State Legislature which is now effective.

It outlines precisely the right to periodic re-evaluation of the condition of such patients, to determine whether they have made sufficient progress toward recovery to permit release or discharge.

A spokesman for the State Department of Health and Social Services explained that an involuntary mental patient under long-standing law has had the right to petition the committing court for a re-examination of his condition, but agreed that the new law will extend such a patient's rights.

The new requirement imposes a positive obligation upon the administrators of the hospitals to provide the periodic re-appraisal.

Findings on Record

It requires an examination within the institution by the medical staff or visiting physician within 30 days after commitment, again within six months after the first evaluation, and thereafter at least once during each 12-month period.

The findings of such examinations must be placed in the patient's hospital record with a copy sent to the committing court.

A state welfare administration official said that the staffs of the three state mental institutions are now, in effect, complying with such requirements in their ordinary treatment programs, but suggested that the new law will impose the duty upon the state mental hygiene division to audit the performance of the numerous county hospitals. The state division has had general responsibility for supervising such institutions, which now contain about 12,000 of about 14,000 mental patients quartered in Wisconsin public facilities.

Petition Seeks New Hearing On Pipeline

Appleton Officials Doubt if Action Will Affect Project

A Neenah millworker who has been crusading against Appleton's Lake Winnebago water-tapping project said today he has petitioned the state to conduct another public hearing.

Virgil Achterberg, 218 W. North Water St., said copies of the petition he and others circulated since last fall were sent to an estimated 30 federal, state and local officials.

He said the petition for a hearing has been filed with the State Department of Resource Development at Madison.

In his news release, Achterberg at first indicated the petitions contained 1,000 signatures but crossed out the last zero. Contacted by a reporter this morning, Achterberg said the petitions had about 400 signers from a three-county (Outagamie, Calumet and Winnebago) area.

Asks Hearings

Achterberg personally asked the state agency to hold hearings at the Fox Valley University Center and at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

He urged agencies to take no further action or give approval of federal or state grants or permits until citizens and sportsmen could be heard on, what Achterberg claimed, is water diversion on the part of Appleton.

Mayor George Buckley's reaction to Achterberg's action was the comment: "The best thing is ignore him and that's what we intend to do."

Have No Effect

City Atty. David Geenen said he felt Achterberg's latest move would not affect Appleton's project. "Public hearings were held by the appropriate agency, others were contacted and orders were issued to proceed with the project," Geenen said.

The general reaction of all city officials concerned with the water project is that Achterberg's action "is passe."

Last week U.S. Senator Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) announced a federal agency had assured him Appleton will receive two grants totaling $1.5 million for the pipeline and water plant addition projects.

It was also indicated the entire project had been thoroughly screened and claims of a water diversion were ruled out on the basis of fact.

Power Squadron Plans Course

Do you know —

On what side do you pass an oncoming boat that gives two blasts of its horn?

How to anchor safely?

What to do when your motor conks out?

How to tie up properly?

The answer to these and other navigating questions will be answered at the Appleton Power Squadron-sponsored free 12-week Piloting Course that starts at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Neenah Senior High School.

Topics to be covered include: equipment and government regulations; rules of the road afloat; the mariner's compass; aids to navigation; charts and piloting; manners and customs on shipboard; seamanship and river piloting.

Plan for Park-School Area Goes to Board

COG Proposal Lists Development of Recreational Facilities as First Step

A proposal for a joint park, recreation and school site on the former Langdyke property in northeast Appleton will be presented tonight to the Appleton Board of Education.

The plan includes a complete park with recreational facilities and sites for a future high school and elementary school.

If the school board endorses the plans, two points of access onto Ballard Road will be determined, City Planner Walter Rasmussen indicated. Then, the preliminary park planning, including tree planting, will be started.

He said that the school could be built when and if the board determined a need.

Gregory Kittleson, Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) associate planner, will present the plan, prepared by COG and the Appleton Planning Commission, for school board evaluation.

Purchased Two Years Ago

The 95-acre site was purchased by the city two years ago primarily for park purposes, according to Rasmussen. The price was $155,000.

When the school board developed enrollment projections during the construction of Appleton High School-East, it decided there was strong possibility of a future need for a high school in

Pay for Attending Meetings

County Supervisors Collect $43,075 Per Diem in 1967

The 46 members of the Outagamie County Board, exclusive of Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, collected a total of $43,075 in per diem for board and committee meetings during 1967 and $4,152.72 in mileage traveling to and from those meetings.

Esler receives a salary of $2,000 as board chairman but does not receive per diem for meetings.

The amounts received by individual supervisors ranged from $1,894.50 for Patrick Heenan, Appleton, a member of both the highway committee, which meets weekly, and the executive committee, down to $175 for Carl Runte, Kaukauna, who was on the board for only part of the year.

Supervisors received $16.50 for a board meeting and $10 for a committee meeting during the year. They also received 8 cents per mile for travel expense.

New Rates

Starting in April, after the spring election, supervisors will be paid $22 for a county board meeting, $15 for a committee meeting and 10 cents per mile.

A majority of the board members serve on only one committee. However, one member from each committee also is on the executive committee, which is then broken down into finance and personnel subcommittees. These supervisors, along with highway committee members and Supvs. Bernard Tillman and Emmett Root, who are also on the zoning board, received the greatest amount in per diem.

Members of the executive committee and the amount they received in per diem and mileage: Patrick Heenan, Appleton, $1,894.50 in per diem and $42.12 in mileage; Marvin Babbitt, Seymour, $1,534.50, $371; Joseph DeBruin, Town of Buchanan,

$1,151, $131; John Dietz, Appleton, $963.50, $40; Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, $1,334, $163; George Greisch, Appleton, $1,052, $21; Patrick Mares, $1,623.50, $81; Stanley Perkins, Towns of Dale and Greenville, $920.50, $132; Emmett Root, Towns of Ellington and Center, $1,591, $292; Chris Roepcke, Towns of Cicero and Seymour, $1,054, $62.

Other Members

Other members of the highway committee: Ervin Conrad, Towns of Maine and Bovina, $1,194.50, $269; Irving Grunwaldt, Towns of Black Creek and Osborne, $1,681.50, $263; George Kroes, Towns of Vandebroek and Kaukauna, $1,494.50, $180; Daniel Williams, Kimberly, $1,491.50, $119, and zoning board member Bernard Tillman, Town of Grand Chute, $1,211, $34.

3 Appleton Boys Finalists for Annapolis

Three Appleton youths are among six finalists competing for the lone 1968 appointment available to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis from the 8th Congressional District, according to Rep. John W. Brynes, R-Green Bay.

They are David M. Marks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Marks, 503 E. McKinley St.; Paul G. Lakey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lakey, 1523 N. Durkee St.; and Ade R. Dillon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Dillon, 342 E. Pershing St.

All six contestants received the highest grades in Civil Service examinations conducted last November throughout the district.

Final tests will be given in spring when the competitors will take the regular Naval Academy entrance examinations. The highest ranking candidate automatically receives Brynes' appointment to the academy.

the Langdyke land area, Rasmussen said.

The plan, already endorsed by the city planning commission, calls for construction of a high school on the northern half with access to Capitol Drive, the northern boundary of the property. The elementary school would be located in the southwest corner.

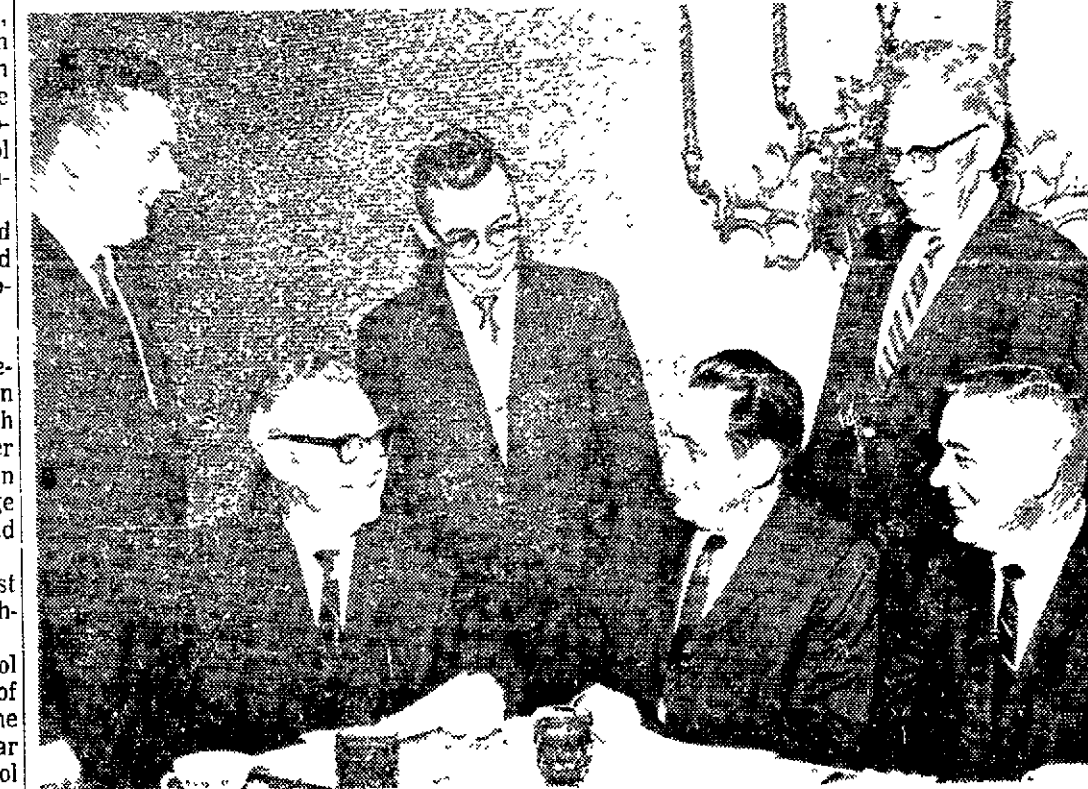

The rest of the site would include full park facilities and school outdoor activity equipment.

One City Request

Rasmussen said the one request the city has is that an open ditch which runs through the property as a storm water outlet be left as an open channel. It maintains drainage for the area west of Ballard and north of County Trunk OO.

The property is located west of Ballard and north of Northland Avenue.

Other business for the school board will be consideration of the recommendations of the special three-man calendar committee for the 1968-69 school calendar. The committee will consist of Supt. of Schools William Spears; a member of the school board professional improvement committee and a member of the Appleton Education Association welfare committee.

New Officers of the Appleton Board of Realtors discuss the 1968 outlook following their election during a meeting at the Elks Club. Seated, from left, are Elmer R. Honkamp, vice president; John T. Law, president, and Norman R. De-

Blaze Follows Explosion At Thilmany Paper Plant

Weigh Public Interest

Valley TV Station Studied

An Appleton group called the Fox Cities Enterprises has indicated interest in establishing a UHF television station here to serve the Fox Cities region and is drumming up support, it was learned today.

Frank E. Drexler, 1406 S. Telulah St., chairman of Fox Cities Enterprises (FCE), said application forms have been obtained from the Federal Communications Commission.

He said if the group decides to go ahead with the UHF television station, it would request a permit to have channel 32 which has been allotted to Appleton.

"Our first goal will be better coverage of local news and events," Drexler said.

He explained details of the proposed communications project in an interview on a local radio station this noon.

Drexler said before the group files for channel 32 it intends to conduct engineering studies and marketing analyses.

Some Interest

"We have received information from the FCC which would indicate the possibility of a market for purely the Fox Cities region does exist for the kind of television we would present," Drexler said.

Asked about financing, Drexler said several individuals have indicated interest.

"If it is shown the people of the region want a UHF station with strictly regional programming, we anticipate no problem with financing," Drexler added.

The Fox Cities region is currently served by regional TV stations at Green Bay.

Several years ago Neenah had a UHF TV station but it went off the air. However, FCC officials feel that "times have changed and UHF could survive here."

Fire Fed By Broken Gas Line

KAUKAUNA — Fire following an explosion raged out of control for 1½ hours Sunday morning and engulfed the asphalt department mixing room at the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co.

The blaze was fed by a ruptured natural gas pipe line and could not be controlled until the gas flow was shut off.

Fred Herbolzheimer Jr., vice president of manufacturing, said the pipe may have ruptured before or after the fire broke out. He and a Wisconsin Gas Company spokesman reported that the heat of the blaze may have caused outside pipe expansion and a leak at a joint.

The gas company spokesman indicated that his firm "had no idea what caused the break" but that an investigation is being conducted.

Pipe Expansion

Kaukauna Fire Department Chief William Haupt theorized that the cold weather could have caused the outside pipe expansion, causing a leak at the joint and the resulting fire and explosion.

Herbolzheimer estimated loss at a minimum of $25,000, but fire department estimates were considerably higher.

The explosion reportedly lifted the roof of an adjacent warehouse, cracking the cement block wall along the top.

Firedoors prevented the blaze from spreading to rooms outside the mixing room. Sprinkling systems in other rooms were set off, causing modest damage to the paper supply.

2 Pumper Trucks

The shift superintendent called the fire department at 3:50 a.m. City firemen fought the blaze with two pumper trucks along with Thilmany Fire Department crewmen.

About 40 employees cleaned up the area and repaired damage. Herbolzheimer said that about 2½ hours production time was lost in the mixing room where operations were scheduled to shut down at 6:30 a.m.

The asphalt department was put in appearances at similar hearings held previously at Milwaukee and Eau Claire.

On Wednesday morning some of the witnesses will include Ben Hannemann, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Towns Association; Roland Kampe, chairman of the Town of Menasha and registered lobbyist; Myron P. Lotto, Brown County Board chairman; Jerome E. Martin, Manitowish County Board chairman; and Patrick DeWane, attorney for the Town of Two Creeks.

Two Creeks recently was catapulted into the limelight when utilities elected the town for multi-million dollar nuclear power plant projects which will

Rasmussen Files Tarr Task Force Brief

Claim Archaic Laws Shackle Cities

The state has virtually moved all responsibility for education from the rural forms in those areas where there are no urban governments to shift the state's archaic annexation laws and tax-sharing formulas, Rasmussen asserted.

In addition to attacking the state's archaic annexation laws and tax-sharing formulas, Rasmussen added that if it is not the policy of the state to deal with cities in a more stringent manner than with rural areas — then the administration of some state agencies "has certainly been over-zealous in creating this impression."

He also contended the state has enacted anti-pollution legislation which focuses on the cities' industries while residences within the unincorporated urban fringes are permitted to dump effluents in roadside ditches, which in turn drain into natural water courses.

"The state through its agencies is empowered to order cities to expand their waste treatment facilities," Rasmussen continued, "while at the same time patting the heads of the urbanized towns for installing package treatment plants and inadequate collection systems that lack capacity to serve anticipated growth."

Rasmussen added that if it is not the policy of the state to deal with cities in a more stringent manner than with rural areas — then the administration of some state agencies "has certainly been over-zealous in creating this impression."

"Where has the state issued an order to install sanitary collection and treatment facilities outside of the urbanized towns?" Rasmussen asked, F. VanHandel, 33, 216 N. Rogers block of St. Kimberly, and Joseph L. Christman, 19, 1816 N. Eugene St. and because these cottages are dumping their wastes into lakes and rivers?" Rasmussen also lashed out at two early today.

re-rural assessment policies and procedures and cited examples in the Fox Cities region which he said represented a failure in the equitable distribution of the cost of government.

Unskilled Assessor "Generally speaking, the unskilled assessor is more inclined to be low than high thus minimizing the rural areas' proportionate share of state and county taxes," Rasmussen asserted.

"The state does not adjust the rural assessments often enough to keep them current and equivalent to the urban areas," he continued. "Further, it is inconceivable that only urban land values increase."

The flurry of accidents resulted in only a few minor injuries. Unreported in earlier accident stories were injuries to Robert VanHandel, 33, 216 N. Rogers block of St. Kimberly, and Joseph L. Christman, 19, 1816 N. Eugene St.

According to police records, 15 of the accidents occurred Friday, 11 Saturday, 10 Sunday, and two early today.

38 Weekend Accidents on Slippery Appleton Streets

Speed too fast for the conditions of streets and failure to yield at unmarked intersections were contributing factors in the majority of the 38 accidents on Appleton streets Friday through morning.

Van Handel suffered mouth and face cuts and several loosened teeth when his car went into a ditch along the 2400 block of N. Newberry Street about 2:30 a.m. today. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by squad car.

He told police he was eastbound on Newberry when he had to swerve to avoid a car on the wrong side of the road.

Hooded Robbers Bind Elderly Man

NEENAH — A 75-year-old retired railroad man was "sore all over" this morning but otherwise uninjured after being tied up in the basement of Frank and Pat's Pizza Place for almost five hours Sunday morning during a robbery by two hooded men.

Fred Trapp, 120 Irene St., was cleaning up the restaurant around 6:30 a.m. Sunday when he surprised two men, both about 30 years old, in the hallway.

One of the robbers struck the man over the head with what appeared to be a broom handle, Trapp said. They "hustled" the man downstairs, wrapped a towel around his face and tied him to a chair.

Larry Swiertz, manager of the pizza parlor, said the bandits escaped with about $100 from the cash register and some coins.

Trapp was discovered bound in a dusty chair in the basement around 1:25 a.m. by his son-in-law, Clarence Speigel.

Speigel went to the restaurant after Mrs. Trapp was unable to reach her husband by telephone.

The man's legs were tied to the base of the chair with a garden hose and his arms were bound by a plastic clothes line.

Told to 'Behave'

Trapp told police his assailants didn't threaten him but only told him to "behave."

The former employee of the Soo Line railroad said his wrists and hands were swollen from attempting to "wiggle" out of his bonds after the robbers left.

Trapp said the men had white hoods pulled over their heads. One man was reportedly short while the other was much taller. Trapp said he didn't have time to identify the bandits as they quickly threw a towel over his head when they reached the basement.

Trapp said he was cleaning the front section, as he had done for the past four years, when the radio in the hallway was suddenly turned off.

When he went to the hallway to investigate, he discovered the two men. One struck him over the head with a long stick, Trapp told police.

Trapp said he was "scared" and the basement was quite "chilly" but he kept busy trying to loosen the cords after his assailants left.

One of the men stayed with Trapp in the basement while the other ransacked the upstairs, police stated.

The telephone lines were cut and the alarm system was ripped out. The bandits pried a side plate from the cash register to release the drawer.

Police said the pair left through a window which leads to a trap door on the south east corner of the building, apparently in the same way as they had entered.

Decision Near on Coin Confession

OSHKOSH — Acting Circuit Judge David C. Willis Friday afternoon said he would announce at a later date his decision concerning the admissibility of a confession made by an Oshkosh man charged with the March 19 armed robbery of Menasha coin dealer Ervin Wanserski.

The defendant is Lawrence V. Miller, 22, of 603½ W. South Park Ave.

Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink argued that, although Miller had been informed of his right to remain silent, the defendant had voluntarily submitted a confession.

Judge Willis asked Fink and Miller's lawyer, Matthew Correy, Milwaukee, to file briefs on the question.

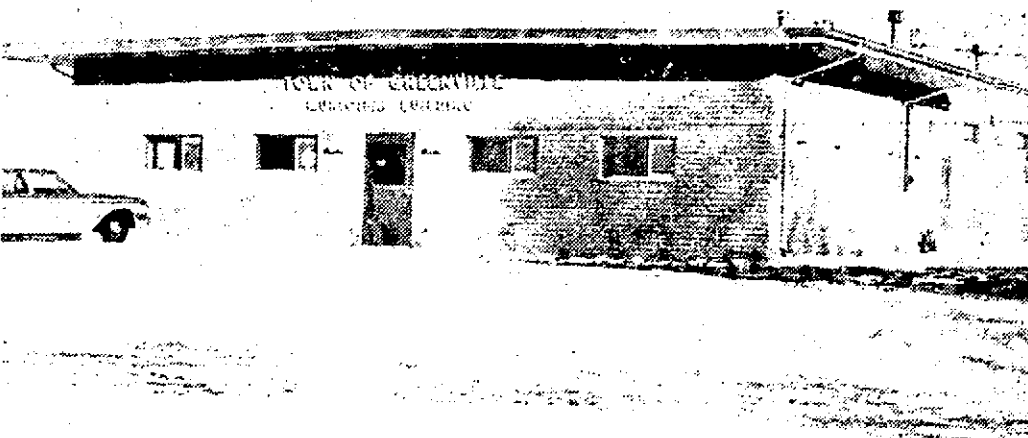

Winnebago Hires Park Architect

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County Parks and Recreation Committee Saturday hired Nolte and Associates, Hales Corners architects, to make a final site plan for a new 250-acre county park on the former county farm site.

The committee also expressed enthusiasm over a plan to invite community, civic and farm organizations to sponsor farm and beautification projects in the park.

Representatives of the Nolte firm and park committee members estimated that a final site plan could be prepared within six months and that park development could be completed within a year.

Total cost of the site plan was estimated at $13,250. Of that figure, $6,550 would go to Nolte Associates for the site plan. The remainder would go to local architects who would do later work on the park development.

WSU-O Graduate Map Strategies As Manager Debate Warms

OSHKOSH — The fall of 1969 executives seeking further education could be the starting date for as many as 13 new graduate programs at Wisconsin State University - Oshkosh, according to Dr. Everett G. Pyle, dean of universities will be in English and the WSU-O graduate school.

It seems likely that some of the programs will begin operation in the fall of 1969.

With the new graduate programs will go eventual increase in faculty and enrollment, new prestige and better service to the community, the dean predicted.

Bombing Curb Sought as Test

The WSU-O graduate Council has already approved applications for programs in art, economics, English, geography, history, speech, biology, chemistry, mathematics, psychology and music.

The political science and business administration departments are also drawing up plans for graduate programs which must be approved by the Graduate Council before being submitted for state approval.

The graduate program expansion will come in the wake of a bill passed by the 1967 Wisconsin Legislature authorizing the establishment of master programs in academic areas other than those associated with teacher education.

Programs must be approved by the Board of Regents of State Universities and the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE). Details for submission of new programs will be worked out at a tentatively scheduled meeting of the Council of Graduate Deans of Wisconsin State Universities in January.

The university currently offers master of science degrees in teaching, guidance and education (mental retardation and reading).

Pyle said that WSU-O now has staff and facilities capable of meeting the initial demand the new graduate programs will bring.

"But once the program gets underway," the dean noted, "we will have to make additions to the staff to keep the program going and to maintain and improve the undergraduate program."

University officials do not foresee a great, sudden increase in enrollments, although graduate studies in business administration may change that prediction.

"If we establish a masters program in business administration, there will probably be a large increase in enrollment because of the great interest in this field in the Fox Valley," Dr. Pyle noted. "We will have astonishing growth here."

Facilities necessary for graduate work will be complete once the new science building is finished. But if business administration is included, a new building housing additional classrooms will "very likely" be constructed.

Classrooms necessary for other programs will then be available in space now used by the business administration department for current undergraduate programs.

Plans now call for a gradual introduction of the programs, followed by gradual expansion as needs arise. The growth of programs will depend on the amount of interest generated.

There are currently 473 students enrolled in graduate programs at WSU-O. Of these, about 30-35 are full-time graduate students who attend classes during the day. The other 435-40 attend one or two night classes during the week.

According to one official, the first year would probably see about 50 additional students taking part in daytime graduate programs. With a business administration program, however, the number would probably double.

Programs "will put WSU-O in the direction of a major university" and will "attract a quality staff that will give us a nationwide reputation."

He added that "the university will also be able to better serve the community" in a variety of ways. He mentioned the business administration program, which would be valued by area

Intensified Effort Expected From Group Of Neenah Voters

NEENAH — Although the temperatures continue to hover around the zero mark, the political climate in Neenah is beginning to warm up.

Election day is still almost three months away but forces are at work to insure a hot campaign by the time April 2 rolls around.

Members of the citizens for City Manager (CCM) group will map out their long-range strategy at a special meeting Tuesday evening.

The group was expanded during the dormant holiday season and the steering committee is expected to make plans for an intensified effort to sell the citizenry on the council-manager form of government.

Part of the program includes more informational booklets on the system of local government, presently employed by 18 Wisconsin municipalities. The group also intends to back alderman candidates who favor the council-manager system, according to one report.

Petitioning efforts of the CCM succeeded in putting the council-manager question before the people on the spring ballot.

Another question which will be answered by the electorate, if the manager system fails to receive the necessary support, is the length of the mayor's term.

The council passed a charter ordinance upping the mayor's term to four years but sufficient signatures were received to also put that issue on the spring ballot.

Another citizens' group is expected to oppose the manager move but it hasn't been so well organized as the CCM. No plans have been announced to date.

While the CCM hopes to interest candidates to run for aldermen on the manager platform, apparently no one has taken out nomination papers on that side.

Menasha Street Official Dies

MENASHA — Evan V. Baldwin, 64, 815 Second St., Menasha street superintendent, died Saturday night.

He was born May 18, 1903 in Manawa and lived in Menasha the last 45 years. He was employed by the city for 40 years and was superintendent of streets for the last 11.

One of the favorites among city employees, "Baldy" was known for his ready smile and sense of humor.

He was a member of the Holy Name Society and Catholic Order of Foresters of St. Mary Catholic Church.

Survivors include the widow, one daughter, two sons, his mother, one brother and one sister.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Laemmrich Funeral Home and College in Minnesota during 10 a.m. at St. Mary Catholic Church. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 4 to 9 p.m. today. The Holy Name, COF, and general rosaries will be prayed at 8 p.m.

Percy, McCarthy Agree; Bundy Has Different View

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two leading Senate critics of the Vietnam war have proposed the United States try graduated bombing cutbacks to test North Vietnamese interest in opening peace negotiations.

In separate television interviews, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said Sunday the bombing of population centers could be reduced or eliminated while air attacks are continued on supply lines and infiltration routes in the South.

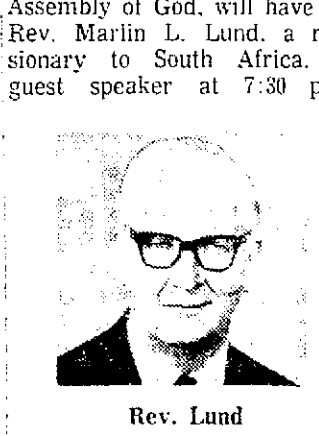

Long Objective

Meanwhile, William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs, suggested peace talks might well lead to hotter fighting if the North Vietnamese took advantage of them to send more troops and military supplies to the South.

Bundy said South Vietnamese Communists may be ready to stop the fighting well before North Vietnam gives up the struggle because "Hanoi is pursuing a very long-standing firm ambition to control South Vietnam ... it would take a great deal to convince them."

Missionary to Africa, Featured Speaker at Assembly of God Rally

The Church of the Open Bible, Assembly of God, will have the Rev. Marlin L. Lund, a missionary to South Africa, as guest speaker at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Lund

Tuesday. The Rev. Mr. Lund will speak on the literature needs of that country during this special missions rally.

Commenting about the literacy rate, the missionary said there has been a sharp rise in the last few years, in particular due to the increase in the number of published books in the vernacular.

The Rev. Mr. Lund is a graduate of North Central Bible College in Minnesota and during the past 19 years has been engaged in the production and distribution of Christian literature in South Africa.

Slides, curios and displays will be shown during the rally, which is open to the public.

Freight Train Jumps Tracks Near Waupaca

WAUPACA — Eighteen cars of an 88 car Soo Line train contained fertilizer. Cause of the accident and a loss estimate were not immediately determined.

Work crews and large wreckers were dispatched from the Stevens Point office to clear the right of way and repair the track.

Repairs were to be completed Sunday afternoon and normal operations resumed.

Pressure Dip Triggers Fire Alarms

Drops in water pressure were responsible for three "dry runs" for the Appleton Fire Department Sunday and early today.

At 4:12 a.m. today, several fire department units were dispatched to Zwicker Knitting Mills, 410 N. Richmond St., when a drop in water pressure triggered an alarm. Firemen found that a sprinkler head above an office ceiling had broken, spilling about 1½ inches of water on the office floors.

Firemen covered boxes in the basement with canvas to prevent further water damage.

Water pressure drops also were responsible for runs to Circle Machinery and Supply Co., 230 S. Linwood St., at 3 p.m. Sunday and to Allis Chalmers-Appleton Plant, 401 E. South Island St., at 11:10 a.m. Sunday.

At 11:30 p.m. Sunday, firemen went to the Ken Geiger Jr. home, 1415 W. Summer St., to handle an overheated oil burner.

staff for recommendations," Geenen said.

As a member of the city's land acquisition committee under the board of public works, Geenen has played a leading role in putting together annexations and industrial development projects, along with saving the city thousands of dollars in condemnation counter-claims.

A native of Appleton, he graduated from the senior high school here in 1933. He served in the U.S. Army's Second Armored Division from 1955-57.

From 1924 until retirement, Dr. Miller practiced at 62 S. Main St., in a former bank building which he purchased. In September, 1964, the Millers deeded the building to the city. Dr. Miller also served as city health officer for a number of years.

50-Year Membership

Dr. Miller was a past member of the American Medical Association and the Wisconsin Medical Association. He was also a long-time member of the Clintonville Masonic Lodge, a member of the board of trustees, and the 36th oldest Mason in the United States. In March, 1965, Dr. Miller was presented with a 50-year membership pin and certificate in the Royal Arch Masons.

He was married in 1910 to Myra Munsert, who preceded him in death last November.

Survivors include a son, a step-daughter, four grandchildren, two step-grandchildren, and five sisters.

causes a financial drain on them.

— Lack of uniformity in enforcing environmental legislation is discriminatory, favoring rural and unincorporated areas, and helps to foster "tax islands" and entice industry from the cities to the outlying areas.

Rasmussen recommended that the State Legislature enact legislation permitting unilateral annexation, along with adopting laws which would exempt cities from county budget expenditures for services not rendered cities.

He urged that state agencies in charge of enforcing environmental controls be given more manpower required to produce uniform state laws and policies.

Rasmussen also called for re-examination of the philosophy that all that cities need are new tax sources, opining that a tax such as the vehicle tax recently enacted by the Legislature "merely widens the gap between rural and city taxes and further penalizes residents of the city."

Mayor George Buckley, asked Rasmussen and other city officials to state the city's official position for the Tarr Committee.

"The rural people must be laughing all the way to the bank," Rasmussen remarked.

Rasmussen concluded that: — The present methods of real property assessment are discriminatory in favor of rural and unincorporated urban areas. — Budgetary methods of some, if not all counties in distributing the tax burden by assessed valuation rather than on a "user pays" basis, also discriminates against cities and

Planners Turn Efforts Toward Sanitary Code

Sewage Disposal Regulations Next Step For Counties Under Water Quality Law

tentative plans for completion by April 1.

In the next two months, six counties are expected to adopt sanitary codes. Florence, Shawano and Waupaca have already passed codes, but Outagamie and Winnebago still have not adopted their shoreland zoning provisions.

Basic in the sanitary code are the regional planning commission's model sanitary ordinance guidelines for septic or treatment tanks and soil absorption fields, Boyd Kinzley, regional planning commission director of natural resources, said.

Septic tanks must meet size requirements based on number of persons, usage and type of waste (minimum capacity is 750 gallons) and minimum distances from certain activities or structures.

Kinzley said the tank must be at least 10 feet from buildings used for human occupancy, a lot, cistern or basement; 25 feet from a well or other domestic water source, and 50 feet from the normal high water mark or waterline.

General requirements for the absorption fields stipulate that there be at least three feet of soil between the bottom of the proposed seepage pit and the groundwater at its highest level, and the percolation rate in any test hole be no more than 90 minutes for a drop of one inch in the water level.

Soils Vary

Kinzley noted that another important factor is slope of the soil absorption site. The Wisconsin Administrative Code says the slope of the sewer for the 10 feet preceding the septic tank shall not exceed one fourth inch per foot, he explained.

"Slope and groundwater or bedrock level must be considered together," he explained. "A steep slope and shallow bedrock combination could easily bring some effluent back to the surface."

The regional planner explained that soils in the nine counties vary markedly and it would be difficult to single out any county for any individual problem.

However, he noted that much of Outagamie is slow in percolation with its heavy textured soil and high groundwater table.

Individual counties, using the model sanitary code set up by Kinzley and his staff, will adopt ordinances which best suit their needs.

The model follows lines of the State Division of Health subdivision platting code and the State Department of Natural Resources model sanitary code, he explained.

Supervision Ordered for Boy in Theft

One of three youths involved in the Aug. 27 theft of three cases of liquor and 12 cartons of cigarettes from the Holiday House, 116 N. Locust St., Appleton, appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court Friday.

Judge Raymond P. Dohr, after hearing testimony, by Appleton police, withheld a finding of delinquency and placed the 16-year-old Appleton boy under supervision of the Appleton Apostolate for one year. He warned the youth that another court appearance during his period of supervision could mean a trip to the State School for Boys.

Two other boys, one 15 and the other 16, have not yet appeared in Juvenile Court on the Holiday House burglary. Some of the stolen merchandise was recovered at the home of one boy, police said.

The boy who was in court Friday also was involved earlier in the theft of a jacket from Gloudeman's Co., and 5,000 trading stamps, valued at $12.50, from Lamers Service Station, 1239 E. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton.

Session Is Urged On County Zoning

Winnebago Bar Committee and Planning Groups Will Participate

A joint all-day meeting of the Winnebago County Bar Association zoning committee chairman, Oshkosh, that the three County Zoning Committee, and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission to prepare a county zoning program has been recommended.

Gordon A. Bubolz, regional planning commission chairman, recently urged the meeting to speed the development of a program to be recommended to the county board.

Winnebago and Outagamie are the only two of the nine member counties of the regional planning group which have not adapted shoreland zoning ordinances.

A comprehensive program, including a shoreland zoning ordinance, sanitary code and subdivision regulations, must be adopted to comply with the new state water quality law. State approval of an April 1 compliance deadline is anticipated. The original deadline was Jan. 1.

William Morris, regional planning commission executive director, indicated that the State Department of Natural Resources will try to have a representative present at a joint meeting. Morris learned this in a recent telephone conversation with Freeman Holmer, department administrator.

Rally Continues On Wall Street

Blue Chip Stocks Big Gainers as Advances Widen

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to rally early this afternoon in active trading. Gains outnumbered losses by better than an 8 to 3 ratio. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 5 26 at 906 50.

Wall Street, while very cautious about the Vietnam peace feelers, still seemed to be betting considerably on warmer prospects for a settlement. Analysts were busy weighing the consequences which, it was agreed, would be very bullish for the stock market as a whole. The market was higher from the start and widened its advance as the rally continued. Stocks backed away from their best early gains but selective blue chip strength more than made up for this.

AP Averages Up
The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1 1/2 at 426 4 with industrials up 2 1/2, rails unchanged and utilities up 1 1/2.

The continued strength of the utilities was a new feature of the 1968 market. American Telephone up about 1/2, continued its 4-point rally of last week. Commonwealth Edison advanced more than a point.

Emporia Capwell dropped about 5. International Telephone and Du Pont about 2 each. Eastman Kodak and Westinghouse Electric a point apiece.

Gains of a point or so were scored by Johns-Manville, Liggett & Myers, General Electric, International Nickel, International Harvester and Caterpillar and Uniroyal.

Rams, 'Outside Influences' Are Too Much for Browns

Ram Tight End Billy Truax gathers in a 2-yard pass from quarterback Roman Gabriel to score the second Los Angeles touchdown Sunday afternoon. The action came in the second period of the Rams-Cleveland Browns Playoff

'Gabe' Paces 30 to 6 Win In Miami

MIAMI (AP) — Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams said "we took this game as seriously as any game we've played," and the Rams reflected it by drubbing the Cleveland Browns 30-6 in the National Football Playoff Bowl in the Orange Bowl Sunday.

"We wanted to let the world know this is as good a team as any playing next week," Allen said, referring to the Super Bowl game between the Green Bay Packers and Oakland Raiders in the same stadium next Sunday.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel of the Rams, voted the Most Valuable Player in the game, expressed his pleasure to a nationwide television audience when he said:

"I want to thank everybody in Miami for making our stay here so enjoyable."

Until Last Quarter

He didn't mention the Browns, but he might have for they didn't come alive until the last quarter and scored with just over four minutes left in the game.

"I hear everybody talk about nobody getting up for this game," said David "Deacon" Jones, 260-pound defensive end for the Rams. "Let me tell you, these guys have a lot of pride."

Allen said his whole club had incentive despite distractions from the Teamsters Union, pre-draft rumors and a visit to a dog track.

"We got a lot of calls and criticisms for working twice," he said of Wednesday's unprecedented double practice session. "But that's the only way to play."

A Cleveland Browns' official, who asked not to be identified, blamed the union talk for part of his team's listless first half.

"Some of these players are preoccupied with outside influences," he said in the dressing room afterward. "I know they attended a union meeting Saturday night. Is that any way to prepare for a football game?"

The National Football League Players' Association met Saturday night in Hollywood and agreed to register as a union with the U.S. Department of Labor.

'Didn't Help'

Art Modell, president of the Browns, admitted that the meeting "didn't help" the Browns' play, and said a personnel shakeup was ahead.

Cleveland had a 9-5 record in winning the Century Division title but lost to the Dallas Cowboys 52-14 in the Eastern Conference playoff.

"I'm upset, certainly I'm upset," Modell said. "We intend to take all steps necessary to get back on the winning track."

Coach Blanton Collier agreed that "we played below normal in the first half. I can't answer why. I was satisfied with the second half, except that our offense didn't jell at all. They certainly had a better football team."

Gabriel threw 21 yards to Bernie Casey and two yards to Billy Truax for first-half touchdowns and hit Tommy Mason for 43 yards to set up a third in the champion Oakland Raiders in the second annual Super Bowl—a game that could well be played in weather 100 degrees warmer than that in which Green Bay downed Dallas on a frozen field for the NFL title.

Coach Vince Lombardi, whose players held light indoor drills Friday and Saturday, said daily workouts would be held up until "Super Sunday."

The Packers were victors in the original Super Bowl, beating the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10.

Today's practice session was held in a gymnasium, but the Packers had to put up with a 13-on-10 drill, below zero reading at game time. The temperature in Green closed.

The Raiders also arrived in Miami for two weeks. It was 10 below Florida Sunday, and the Packers left. "We have a lot to do," said Lombardi.

But if the Packers are to suffer from the weather, it will be a chartered plane for sunny Florida. The cause will be professional football and it will be a great effort to beat the "foul-weather" friends. Those American Football League them."

Even in victory, the fans in heat—not frostbite. Green Bay will meet the take a great effort to beat the "foul-weather" friends. Those American Football League them."

Technicals and technique—they cost Alex Hannum and the Philadelphia 76ers.

The technicals—two fouls called almost simultaneously on the 76ers coach—cost Hannum a chance to see all of Sunday's National Basketball Association game at Cincinnati as he was ejected with 3:36 left in the third quarter for protesting a personal foul call.

The technique—run and shoot by Cincinnati—cost the 76ers a chance to increase their Eastern Division lead over idle Boston to four games as the Royals rolled to a 134-118 victory.

There was no other action in the NBA. In the American Basketball Association, Dallas topped New Orleans 101-101, Minnesota edged Indiana 109-106 and New Jersey walloped Anaheim 121-102.

Hil 61 Per Cent

Cincinnati really ran and shot in the fourth quarter—maybe it was just as well for Hannum's nerves that he wasn't around—when they outscored the 76ers 44-32 by hitting on 61 per cent of their field goal attempts, 16 of 26.

Jerry Lucas led Cincinnati with 34 points and a game-high 27 rebounds. Oscar Robertson added 30 points and Connie Dierking 26. Wilt Chamberlain paced Philadelphia with 35 points and 25 rebounds.

Dallas' victory over New Orleans was its first ever after five exhibition and four regular season setbacks.

Cincy Powell packed one big Dallas scoring punch with 35 points, and John Beasley added 27. Doug Moe topped New Orleans with 22.

All Teams Pledge Support

NFL Players to Unionize

HOLLYWOOD BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The National Football League Players' Association announced Sunday it will take formal action this week to register with the U.S. Department of Labor as a labor union.

Mike Pyle of the Chicago Bears, the association president, said pledges of support had been received from all 16 teams in the NFL.

The players' president said the 16 player representatives meeting in Hollywood Beach also have voted to reject efforts by the Teamsters Union to organize the players. Pyle said the association will represent the players in collective bargaining negotiations with the owners.

"The association will take a militant attitude to protect its members and undertake all appropriate action to see that the players' demands are met," Pyle said.

Pyle said Daniel S. Shulman, a Chicago labor attorney, has been retained as the players' chief negotiator and labor relations counsel.

Shulman will handle labor negotiations and proposals which are being formulated for presentation to the club owners. Pyle said.

Creighton Miller, legal counsel to the players' association, he was injured Dec. 24 and underwent surgery three days later.

O'Connell promptly announced that special clauses will be inserted into future contracts—banning such sports as skiing and other off-season activity the club may consider dangerous.

Lonborg, talking as a dedicated skier, shrugged off the dangers of the winter sport as he left the hospital to go to Red Sox trainer Buddy Le Roux's home in nearby Winchester.

"I'm not worried about being able to pitch again," Lonborg said. "Baseball is my primary concern now. My quick vacation is over."

Bobby Fouth in History to Achieve Feat Hull Passes 400-Goal Mark in NHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Hull's non-stop sprint in the National Hockey League's all-time goal-scoring race has carried the Chicago Black Hawks' superstar past another checkpoint. And he's still in too much of a hurry to look back.

"I'll just have to take them as they come," Hull said Sunday night after his 400th and 401st career goals helped Chicago's East Division leaders beat second place Boston 4-2.

Snap Loss Streaks

Hull became the fourth 400-goal scorer in NHL history—joining Detroit's Gordie Howe, Montreal's Jean Beliveau and ex-Canadian star Maurice Richard—stopped 26 shots in blanking the ard—with a 45-foot blast mid-Kings, who have lost eight in a way in the second period. Helrow, Ehman scored once in the started on the way to 500 with first period and twice in the an open-net tally in the final third for the Seals' first hat minute.

Three goals by Gerry Ehman helped Oakland snap an 11-minute winless streak with a 6-0 victory over skidding Los Angeles; Jean Ratelle's hat trick led New York past Toronto 6-2; Montreal nipped Detroit 4-3 on and Phil Goyette staked the Rangers to a 3-0 lead.

Tremblay snapped a 3-3 tie early in the third period, sending the Canadiens past the Red Wings, who fell into the Easting cellar—one point behind Mon-paign.

Ratelle registered his first goal and New York.

NHL hat trick inside five. Forbes Kennedy, Gary Dornhoefer and Ed Hoekstra scored after first period tallies by Reggie Philadelpha and Doug Fawcett turned away 36 Pittsburgh shots in nailing mid-season goaltending honors for himself and alternate Bernie Parent.

The Flyers' goaltenders will divide $250 for allowing only 77 goals—least in the league—during the first half of the campaign.

Soviets Helping Castro Fix Economy of Cuba

Trade Pack Reportedly Unsigned

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

HAVANA (AP) — The Soviet Union sent a team of economic experts to Havana last November at Fidel Castro's request to try to help straighten out Cuba's economy, informed European Communists in Havana report.

The sources said the Russian team's unannounced visit was to review Cuban economic plans for the next three years. They added that the Cuban-Soviet trade agreement for this year, which is part of the three-year plan, has not yet been signed, but this is expected later this month.

The Russian economic mission was a result of talks between the Cuban prime minister and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin last June, it was said.

Rationing Unnecessary
The same sources also reported that the Russians feel Castro's order last Tuesday to ration gasoline for private cars was unnecessary and that the Cubans have misused Soviet-supplied petroleum.

The Soviets reportedly feel that the savings from the gas ration will not be sufficient to offset adverse publicity.

The sources reported, however, that the Soviets expect to send Cuba 155,000 additional metric tons of crude oil this year, an increase of about 4 per cent.

Castro reportedly suggested that the Russian economic team come to Cuba earlier, but Kosygin replied it would be difficult before the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution on Nov. 7.

3-Year Plan
The sources said Cuba's three-year plan has been worked on by both Castro and Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos but gave no details.

Russia is believed supplying the Castro government with about $400 million worth of non-military aid annually.

According to the sources, the Russians have no argument with Castro's plan to tighten gasoline control on government vehicles. But the Soviets were said to be against gasoline rationing for private cars, which they estimate number only 30,000 out of a total of 150,000 nonmilitary vehicles. These vehicles are said to account for less than 20 per cent of national petroleum consumption. One theory is that Castro could harden government vehicles without first limiting consumption for private cars, which are mostly owned by people the government classes as bourgeois.

Russia provides 99 per cent of Cuba's petroleum. The sources said Russia delivered 3.7-million metric tons in 1963, 3.4 million in 1964, 3.5 million in 1965, 3.6 million in 1966 and 3.845 million last year. They said the Soviet Union is scheduled to deliver more than 4-million metric tons this year in addition to replacing the gasoline which Castro said Cuba had to use from military reserve stocks because of last year's shortage.

Cardinal Quits Curia of Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, the most powerful ultra-conservative in the Roman Catholic Church, has resigned from the church's central administration and Pope Paul VI has accepted the resignation, the Vatican announced today.

The Pope named Franjo Cardinal Seper of Yugoslavia, 62, to replace the 77-year-old Cardinal Ottaviani as secretary for the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the former Holy Office and the most powerful single agency in the Vatican Curia, the church's central administration.

Eshkol, Johnson Declare Mutual Desires for Peace

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson and Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol toured the placid LBJ Ranch and talked of peace in the Middle East and the world Sunday. With the Hebrew word "shalom"—peace—Johnson started things off.

"We will try to extend peace that is in our hearts to all men who are willing to share our partnership of good faith and good purpose," the President said in an airport welcome for Eshkol at Randolph Air Force Base, some 60 miles south of the ranch.

The 72-year-old Israeli leader said peace was his "central concern," too. Eshkol noted that it was in his area of the world in ancient days that "men first expressed a striving for peace on earth."

Continued Hope
"I will never give up hope that this will come to pass. We in our country are working toward this end," Eshkol declared.

And Johnson added his hope that "you find peace which all Americans are proud to seek with you."

Amid the emphasis on peace, the Israelis were expected to make a plea for U.S. arms, including 50 F4 phantom jet planes they say are needed to balance a Soviet buildup of arms to Arab nations.

The 22-hour overnight visit was informal and private, except for the arrival at Randolph, where about 1,000 persons turned out in 37 degree

Fires Leave State Families Homeless

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Members of the Ronald Ott family were forced to flee early Sunday when a blaze of undetermined origin destroyed their two-story frame home near Brandon in Fond du Lac County. Fire caused an estimated $8,000 damage to the South Milwaukee home of David Emerson and 10 children to safety Sunday afternoon. Emerson and his wife were shopping at the time and their daughters, aged 13, 7 and 4, stayed home. The young sisters refused to leave the burning one-story structure until their pet dog was rescued by two policemen. The fire began when the oldest girl lit a match to look under a bed for a missing toy, authorities said.

Seven persons, including four children, had to flee into 15 degrees below zero weather early Sunday when fire caused an estimated $3,500 damage to a two-family home in Milwaukee. No injuries were reported. The blaze began, authorities said, when a child was playing with a cigarette lighter.

A Wauwatosa couple and two children fled to safety from their home Sunday after a $5,000 fire was touched off by a propane torch being used to solder copper pipes during a remodeling project.

Man's Body Found In Lake at Madison

MADISON (AP)—The body of a young man found frozen in ice was removed from Lake Mendota Sunday.

Children walking on the ice noticed the body. The victim's identity and the cause of death were not known.

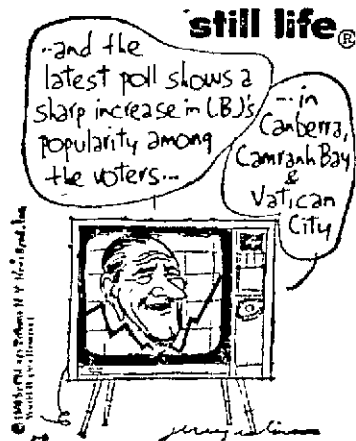

Dane County officers said the pay area where the body was found has been frozen for nearly a month.

Russians Link Writers To Anti-Soviet Group

By MICHAEL JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP) — The three male defendants in a Moscow literary trial were accused today of working for a foreign émigré group devoted to the overthrow of the Soviet government, Soviet sources said.

The accusation was made in the prosecutor's opening remarks at a closed trial in Moscow city courthouse. The prosecutor said Alexander Ginsburg, 31, Yuri Galanskov, 28, and Alexei Dobrovolsky had contacts with NTS, an organization of Russians living abroad whose Russian initials stand for Popular Labor Alliance. The Soviet government has warned its people against having anything to do with it. Also on trial is Vera Lashkova, a typist. Dobrovolsky and Miss Lashkova, admitted the charges in the morning session of the trial, the Soviet sources said.

Trial Closed
It was impossible to obtain complete information on the proceedings because Western correspondents were refused entry and Soviet news media maintained silence.

Shortly after the trial began, about 50 relatives and friends staged a silent protest on the sidewalk outside the courthouse. They had been turned away. After about 15 minutes in the snow and cold, they disbanded.

Later, Galanskov's wife, father, mother and sister were permitted to enter the courtroom along with Ginsburg's fiancée, Natalia Ginsburg, the tiny gray-haired mother of the main defendant was barred.

The four young literary figures were charged under a law prohibiting anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda. It carries a maximum penalty of seven years at hard labor.

Surprise Move
The linking of the three with NTS came as a surprise. This shadowy organization with headquarters in Paris, figured in the 1965 trial of Englishman Gerald Brooke and the 1967 trial of West German student Volker Schaffhauser. They both got stiff sentences on a charge of smuggling NTS material into this country.

The Soviet government has accused the organization of working for U.S. British and West German intelligence. NTS in its manifestoes has claimed supporters in the Soviet Union and proclaimed as its object the overthrow of communism by violence if necessary.

Most of the friends and relatives of the defendants, after the silent protest outside, took up a vigil in the courthouse building. They had frequent noisy arguments with about 30 plainclothesmen and volunteer guards. A secret police agent photographed all this.

Ginsburg and Galanskov had been thought to be on trial for publication outside Russia of "The White Book of the Sinyavsky-Daniel Affair."

The book, printed in the Soviet Union and smuggled to Western Europe, is a collection of trial documents and protests over the sentencing of satirists Andrei D. Sinyavsky and Yuli M. Daniel, convicted in 1966 for publishing anti-Soviet writings to hard labor camps. Sinyavsky for seven years, Daniel for five.

Convention Opens Louisiana School Has Cage Team Put On NCAA Probation

By RON RAPOPORT
NEW YORK (AP) — With its toughest issue—the penalizing of colleges for recruiting infractions—already out of the way, the National Collegiate Athletic Association opened its 62nd annual convention here today.

The axe fell quickly, and fairly lightly, Sunday on the University of Southwestern Louisiana, the only institution found guilty of violations serious enough to rate punishment by the NCAA's committee on infractions.

The Lafayette, La., school had its basketball team placed on probation for two years for giving financial aid to three prospective players. Currently ranked No. 8 in the small-college rankings, the team will not be allowed to play in any post-season games.

High Winds, Snow Rake Location of Winter Olympics

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — High winds and heavy snowfalls raged through most of the French Alps Sunday, but most installations for the Feb. 6-18 Winter Olympic Games were reported undamaged.

Chimneys were knocked over, trees uprooted, and telephone poles broken by the winds, which reached 60 miles per hour in Grenoble.

A small temporary railway station near the Olympic Village was unroofed and the walls flattened. Officials estimated damage at $30,000 and said the building would be put back in shape within 12 days.

Skating Title Won By Madison Club

MADISON (AP) — The Madison Skating Club compiled 260 points Sunday as it won the Badger State open ice skating meet over second place West Allis, with 234 points.

Finishing a distant third with 25 points was Eau Claire, followed in order by Superior, 14; Waupaca, 13; Oconto, 11; Waupesa, 3; and Whitefish Bay, 2.

Sixteen records were shattered in the meet.

Hull Says He Won't Become Obsessed With Records

By JOE MOOSHIL
CHICAGO (AP) — The scoreboard clock said it was 9:47 of the second period and the clock designating the time of day said it was 8:41 p.m. when Bobby Hull slammed home the 400th goal of his career.

The standing room only crowd of more than 17,000 let off a thunderous roar. Hull skated off the ice, but they kept cheering until the clock struck 8:45 p.m. when Bobby finally came off the Chicago Black Hawk bench.

Hull skated to the end of the rink and handed the puck to his wife, Joann.

Expect Seven Turbine Cars In '500' Race

McLaren, Hulme Will Enter Autos At Indianapolis

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Auto racer Bruce McLaren said Sunday that he and world champion racer Denny Hulme will drive turbine-powered cars in the 1968 Indianapolis "500" race.

"I expect we will be pretty unpopular, but from what I hear there will be at least seven turbine-powered cars in the race," said New Zealander McLaren.

He was referring to last year's protests when American driver Parnelli Jones nearly won the race in a similar machine.

The cars are being backed by the Goodyear Tire Co. and entered by the Shelby racing organization. They should be capable of about 215 mph.

Hulme, meanwhile, was in satisfactory condition at the Middlemore Hospital following his spectacular crash in Saturday's New Zealand Grand Prix.

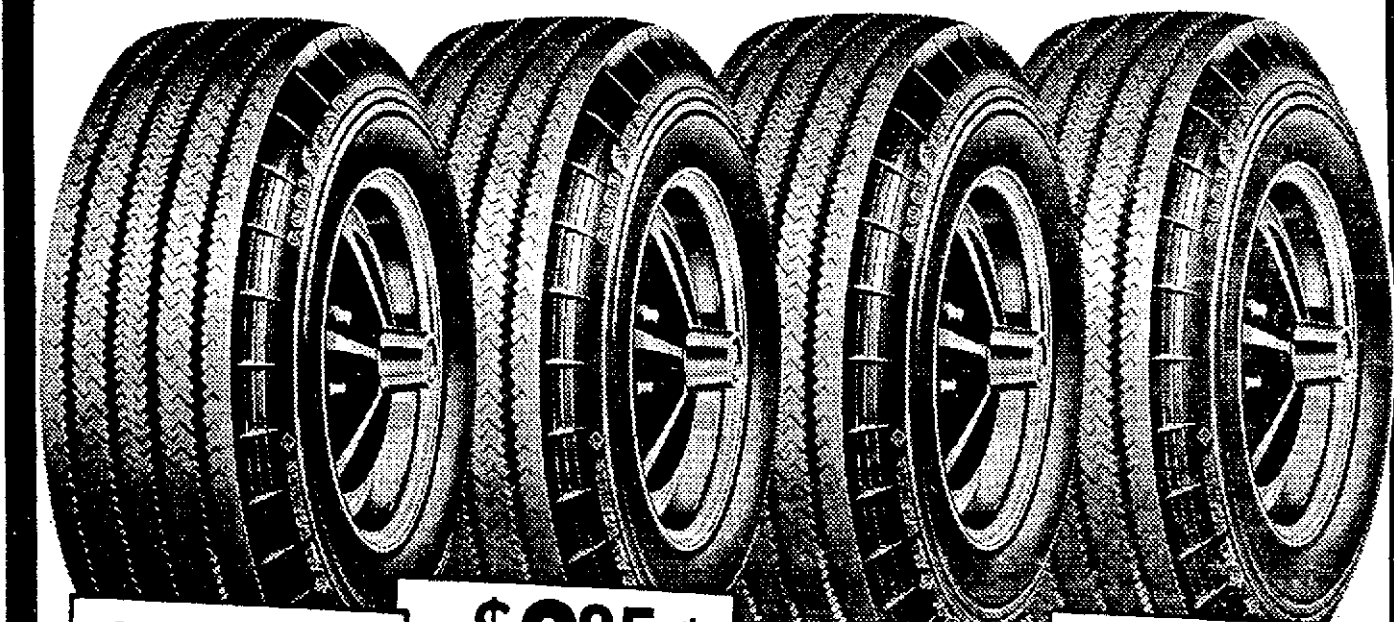

The hospital medical superintendent, Dr. Robert Moody, said X rays had revealed that Hulme had not injured his neck as had been thought earlier.

The New Zealander suffered a concussion, cuts and bruises when he collided with fellow countryman Laurence Brownlie during the race.

Brownlie is also in the hospital with a broken leg, broken foot, concussion and cuts.

Beloit Opens MC Campaign With Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Beloit College opened defense of its Midwest Conference basketball title with a victory during the weekend, while two more Wisconsin small colleges won games and six others lost against out-of-state foes.

Beloit, which shared the Midwest championship last season with Cornell of Iowa, beat Coe 58-56 in the league opener for both clubs. Ray Meader scored two free throws in the closing three seconds to wrap up the victory.

The only other successful outings for Badger State teams saw Lakeland beat Trinity of Illinois 96-71 and Milton down Concordia, Mo., 57-47.

Ripon and Lawrence both dropped Midwest Conference contests to teams from Northfield, Minn. Carleton beat Ripon 89-81 and St. Olaf down Lawrence 80-78 in overtime.

Beat Carthage

Wheaton, returning to the College Conference of Illinois-Wisconsin after an absence of several years, beat Carthage 99-91, by scoring three consecutive baskets at the start of an overtime period. It was Carthage's first CCTW loss of the year.

Jack Lutz of Carthage led all scorers with 35 points.

In the Midland Conference, Quincy of Illinois edged St. Norbert 86-85 by stealing the ball in the closing seconds and scoring two free throws. St. Norbert blew a five-point lead in the final three minutes in its fourth conference loss against two victories.

Third Wild Turkey Hunt Likely

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Selected Wisconsin sportsmen will have the chance to hunt wild turkey for the third season in succession, if the state conservation commission at its meeting here Friday, approve a plan of the state game management division.

The shooting will be on the Necedah wildlife refuge in Juneau County in north central Wisconsin. Hunters will make applications for shooting permits, and a drawing by lot will follow for the issuance of the permits in numbers recommended by the game division.

A modest harvest has been recorded in the Juneau county preserve for the last two autumn seasons. Because the turkey flock, produced from birds originally stocked there, has continued to grow, the game officials believe that another small harvest can be permitted.

Bruins, Cougars Roll On Tar Heels, Vols Win; Kentucky Zips Past Fourth-Rated Vandy

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee, fighting for attention and clawing their way up the ladder of national college basketball rankings, all have one big plus going for them.

They don't play UCLA.

Not so Houston. The second-ranked Cougars face a Jan. 20 showdown with the awesome Bruins in the Houston Astrodome, a game already assured of the largest attendance in college basketball history. Over 48,000 tickets already have been sold.

The Cougars warmed up for that one with a 118-81 rout of Centenary Saturday, with All-American Elvin Hayes tossing in 40 points. It was Houston's 15th straight in an unbeaten season.

Breeze to Win

But UCLA, dominating the game as perhaps no team has ever done before, methodically routed Washington 93-65. Lew Alcindor scored 38 for the Bruins, who ran their unbeaten string to 44 straight.

North Carolina, No. 3, Kentucky, No. 5, and Tennessee, No. 6, also won, Kentucky with an impressive 94-78 triumph over fourth-ranked Vanderbilt.

North Carolina's Tar Heels edged a tough Duke team 75-72 while Tennessee's Volunteers humbled Alabama 82-63.

St. Bonaventure, No. 9, romped over Niagara 101-72, holding Niagara's Calvin Murphy to 25 points, his lowest of the season. It was unbeaten St. Bonaventure's 11th straight.

New Mexico, ranked 10th, also remained unbeaten, scoring its 13th straight, 71-64 over a tough New Mexico State team.

But Oklahoma City, ranked No. 8 and previously unbeaten, suffered a stunning 74-63 reversal at the hands of Portland, which hadn't won in 17 previous games. Rich Travis, the No. 3 scorer in the nation, was held to eight points.

32 for Maravich

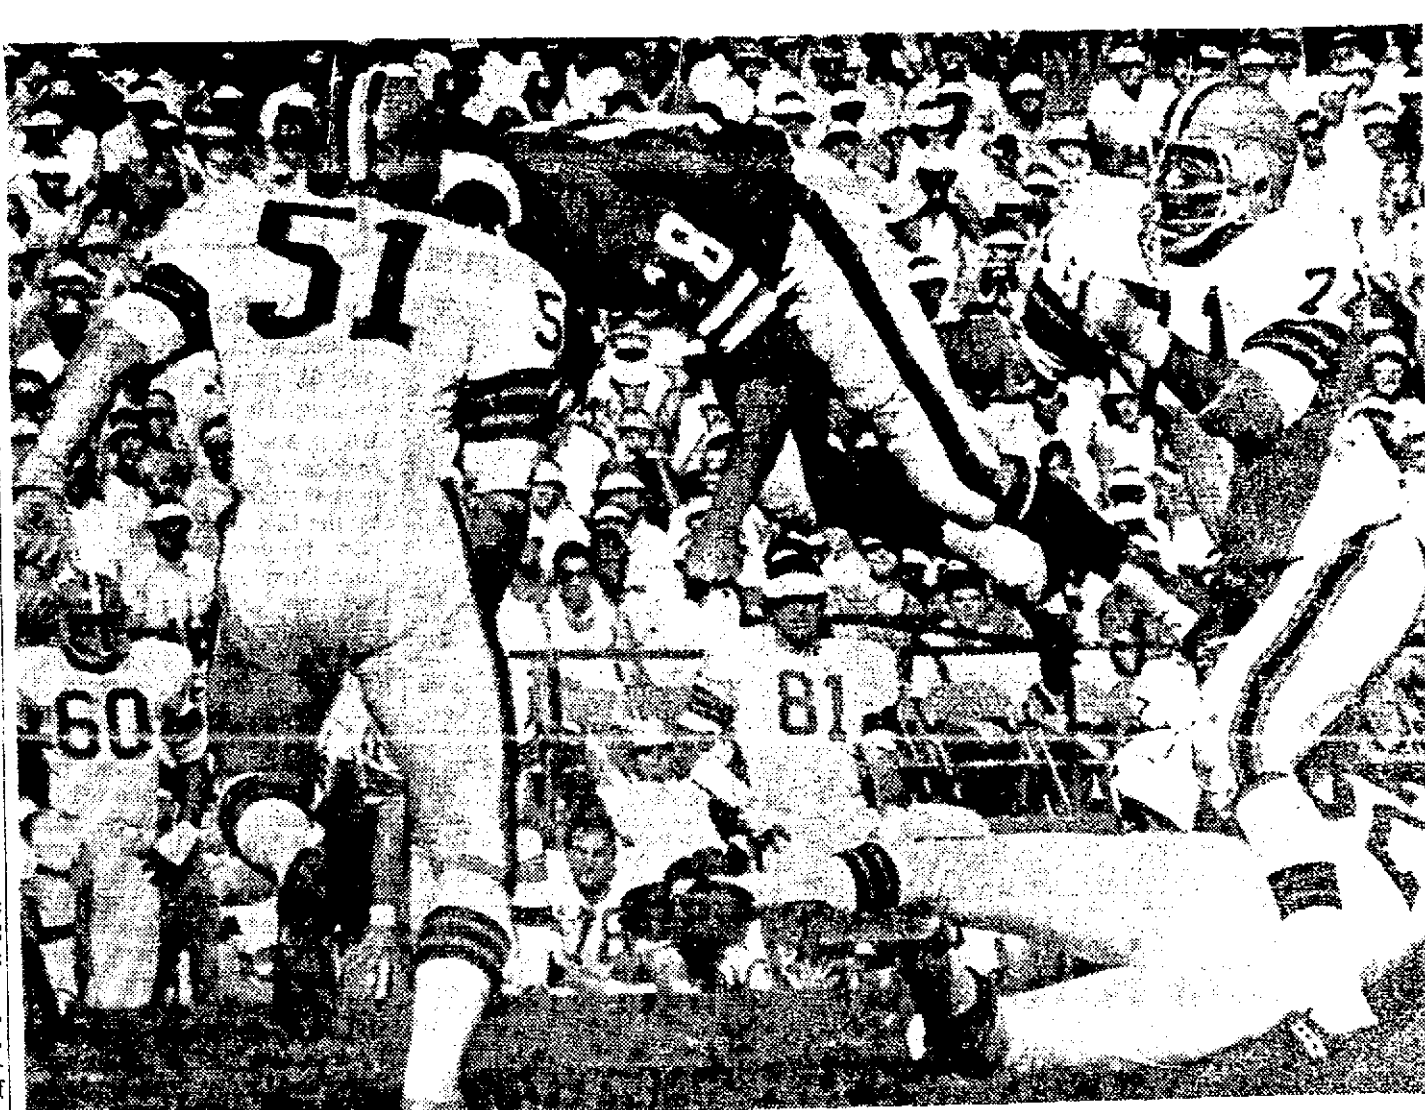

Pete Maravich, the country's leader, had 32 for Louisiana State, but the Tigers lost to Florida 97-90.

UCLA, the defending national champion, wrecked Washington's man-to-man defense and broke the game open in the first half when it held the Huskies without a field goal for seven minutes.

Houston had all five starters in double figures, blocked 21 Centenary shots and stole the ball 24 times.

John Plach Slams 246-631 In Fish Couples Pin Loop

John Plach socked a 246 game; ton and Al Seemann had a 623 and 631 series to lead men's series to divide honors in the On keglers in the Fish Couples Broadway League at the 41 League at Hahn's Lanes Saturday night.

For the women, Shirley Frank hit a 193 game and Ilene Deltgen rolled a 519 series, which also included a 193 line. Other top scores included Janet Ferron 191, Les Krueger 588, Harvey Vandenberg 234-603, Floyd Vandenberg 556, Jerry Schwalenberg 558, Russ Peterson 557, Rod Deltgen 576, and Don Frank 572.

Paul Farah fired a 237 single-

Eric Jack fired a 594 series for top score in the Ziegler-Timm Couples League at the Hortonville Lanes.

Ben Gaigg had a 557 series, Gerry Bellile recorded a 201 line and Pat Jack had a 519 set.

In The Post-Crescent Couples League at Hahn's Lanes Saturday night, Dick Mittlestadt had a 586 series and Bob Duszak fired 562. For the women, Bev Behrend had a 506 series.

Del Sprenger's 582 series topped the Dirty Dozen Couples League at the Twin City Bowl. Al Chounard had a 568 total.

Bob Greiner Rolls 652 Set At Freedom

Frank Crowell Tops Trinity Pin Loop With 624 Series

Bob Greiner jolted a 234 game and 652 series to lead bowlers in the American League at Ludwig's Lanes, Freedom, in recent action.

Joe Ludwig, Jr., took runner-up honors with a 225 game and 614 series while "Buz" Garvey had 568 and Clayton School rolled 559. Modern Dairy (42-14) won the first half title.

Frank Crowell's 624 series, which included a 232 game set the pace in the Trinity League at Hahn's Lanes. Ed Jansen had 574 and Norm Jahnke had a 566 set.

Schmitzer Hits 241

In Friday night's Tavern League action at Hahn's, Nate Schmitzer fired a 241 game and Erv Hooyman had a 608 series. Schmitzer finished with a 553 total.

Larry Norman had a 604 series to pace the Appleton Auto League at the 41 Bowl last week.

Colorado State Downs Loyola on Charity Shots

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — The Colorado State University Rams fought off a favored Loyola University team of Chicago late in the game, then took an 81-73 basketball victory on free throws and layups in the closing minutes Saturday.

The Loyola club held a narrow lead until late in the first half, then the two clubs exchanged leadership until about two minutes remained in the game.

The Rams used ball control that had Loyola fouling, with Lloyd Kerr connecting on three foul shots and Tom Nowicki racing in for two layups and a free throw. The Rams' Martin Hess hit two foul shots with 18 seconds left to tie the game for CSU.

Floyd Kerr tallied 23 points for the Rams, while Loyola's Walt Robertson was connecting for 18 points, all in the second half.

CSU is now 5-7 for the season, with Loyola 7-3.

Chuter Jayvees Boost Record to 8-1 With 2 Wins

LITTLE CHUTE — A pair of victories over the weekend has boosted the Little Chute St. John jayvee basketball team record to 8-1 for the season, according to Coach Lyle Bowers.

The Chuters have a 5-0 mark against Fox Valley Catholic Conference foes and are 3-1 in on-league play. The only loss was to Kimberly in the season opener.

Last weekend, the Dutchmen topped Marinette Central Catholic, 38-29, and Manitowoc Roncalli, 53-43. Jerry Verhagen was high in the Marinette game with 13 points and Mike Fitzpatrick had 18 against Roncalli.

Bear Creek Youth Hurt In Mishap

1 of 4 Injured During Weekend On County Roads

Darrel D. Zitske, 19, route 1, Bear Creek, was injured when his car struck a gasoline pump and pump island at the Van Straten Oil Co. station in Shiocton about 12:20 a.m. today.

Outagamie County police said that Zitske, suffered right knee abrasions, a cut lip, and a bruised left hand. Police said his car was westbound on State 54 when it went out of control. Damage was estimated at $600 to the car. An oil company spokesman said that the gasoline pump was ruined in the accident. There was no fire.

Two persons, including a Milwaukee youngster, were injured in a two-car accident about 1 p.m. Saturday on U.S. 41 at Wrightstown Road, 6 miles north of Kaukauna.

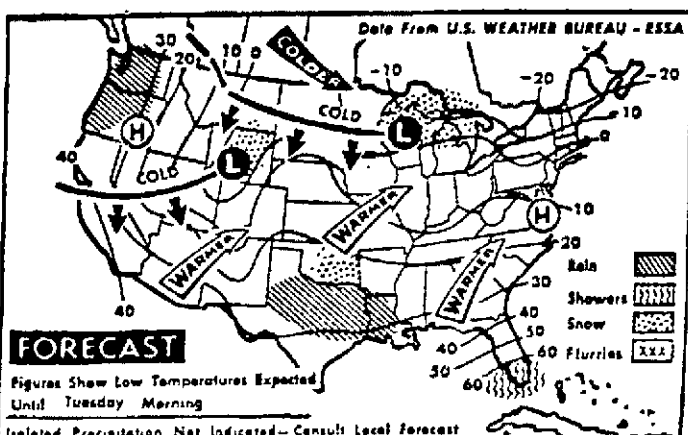

Taken to Hospital

Cars involved in the accident were driven by Wilmer R. Nordling, 38, Milwaukee, and Peter Van Wychen, 54, 1906 Green Bay Road, Kaukauna. Van Wychen suffered head cuts. Glen Nordling, three-year-old son of the driver of the other auto, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by squad car for treatment of head injuries.

Police said the Van Wychen car, northbound on 41, was making a left turn from the right lane when it was struck by the northbound Nordling auto which was in the left lane. Police estimated damage at $1,700.

Arnold Jentz, 67, route 2, Appleton, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance Friday afternoon when his half-ton pickup truck left State 76, 1 1/2 miles north of Greenville, and struck a utility pole. Police said that Jentz suffered abrasions to his head and right shoulder.

Doctors Perform Heart Transplant at Stanford

Classmate of Dr. Barnard Heads Team

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Steelworker Mike Kasperak was doing "quite well" today with the heart of a 43-year-old housewife beating strongly in his breast. Kasperak, 54, of nearby Palo Alto, became the world's fourth heart transplant patient late Saturday night during a 4½-hour operation performed by a doctor who was a classmate of Dr. Christiaan Barnard of South Africa, who already has two transplants to his credit.

Although unable to talk because of a tube through his throat to help him breathe, Kasperak could understand questions and comments, and nurses could lip-read his responses.

Kasperak was dying of heart disease Saturday night when Dr. Norman E. Shumway's surgical team at Stanford University School of Medicine cut out his heart and implanted Mrs. White's. The Santa Clara woman had died two hours earlier after a stroke.

Shumway said his patient knew he had a donated heart beating in his chest. It was one-third the size of the enlarged one that had been discarded, but it was performing well, Shumway said.

'Almost Normal'

Blood pressure, pulse and body temperature were in a reasonable range, Dr. Donald C. Harrison, a cardiologist, told a news conference at Stanford Medical Center Sunday afternoon. Harrison said the heart output—a amount of blood pumped—was 5.3 liters per minute.

Mrs. White

Fowler Says Tax Hike Might Not be So Large

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler has opened the door a crack—just a little crack—to the possibility the administration will seek a tax hike lower than the 10 per cent it unsuccessfully sought in the last session of Congress.

"I am aware of some discussion of whether or not 8 per cent would be adequate or 6 per cent would be adequate," Fowler said Sunday. He added he would reserve judgement until the House Ways and Means Committee resumes hearings Jan. 22 on President Johnson's tax plans.

In the first session of the 90th Congress, Johnson's 10 per cent surcharge bill died in the committee. Fowler said his "current inclination" is that the 10 per cent originally requested "is good insurance to have."

Fowler has said a tax hike would improve the nation's financial standing and help reduce the $3.5 billion balance-of-payments deficit.

Secretary Fowler

He said the Vietnam war is responsible for about $1.5 billion of the deficit but rejected a suggestion that the dollar drain would force the United States to curtail military commitments overseas.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., called Sunday for the withdrawal of four of the six divisions of U.S. troops in Europe in order to reduce overseas spending and thus, he said, strengthen the dollar.

The United States is spending $1.5 billion to $2 billion a year to maintain forces in Western Europe, said Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee.

Fowler appeared on CBS' "Face the Nation" and Proxmire spoke on Metromedia's "Opinion: Washington."

Craft Speeding Toward Moon

Scientists Change Minds, Lunar Target

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A final direction change will be sent tonight to Surveyor 7, the last scheduled U.S. unmanned mooncraft, speeding toward a planned soft landing on rugged lunar terrain.

Flight controllers at Jet Propulsion Laboratory will adjust the path of the instrument-loaded craft in an attempt to put it 18 miles north of the crater Tycho, near the south-central edge of the lunar disc.

Surveyor is expected to be some 51,000 miles from the moon when the course alteration is made at 10:30 p.m., PST. The landing is planned for Tuesday night.

Controllers radioed an initial direction change Sunday afternoon and said the operation went well.

1,000 Miles North

The course adjustments were necessary because the booster rocket that powered the 2,200-pound vehicle from Cape Kennedy, Fla., early Sunday aimed it at the crater Hipparchus, 1,000 miles north of Tycho.

U.S. space agency scientists had designated Hipparchus as the target but then decided the Tycho region was better suited to the mission's goal of sampling subsurface material. Because it is a newer crater, the soil ejected when Tycho was created has had less time to be changed by erosion.

Engineers figured it would be easier to change Surveyor's course in flight than to rebuild the booster's electronics. Earlier Surveyors have required only one course correction.

The highlands north of Tycho were picked although they appeared to be rugged, and computer analysis gives Surveyor 7 a 43 per cent chance of landing safely. Surveyors 5 and 6, both of which were successful, were given 47 per cent chances.

Surveyor 7's target area is only 12 miles in diameter, whereas previous Surveyor target areas were 37 miles wide. A Jet Propulsion lab spokesman said the spacecraft is aimed at a "relatively smooth but still damned rough" piece of terrain.

The unmanned flight is to be the last lunar mission before man makes the trip, perhaps next year.

Israel Jets Silence Jordanian Guns

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli jet fighters screamed across the Jordan River today to silence Jordanian artillery which opened up on Israeli settlements in the tense Beisan Valley, an army spokesman announced here.

The planes were called into action after an artillery battle raged across the river for three hours, stopped for half an hour and erupted again when Jordanian artillery began pounding Kfar Ruppin and Hadz Hayyim in the valley, the spokesman added.

The Jordanians charged the Israelis started the shooting, which took place as U.N. emissary Gunnar Jarring discussed a Middle East settlement with the Jordan government in Amman.

Major Puts Zip Into Air Force Assignment

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Air Force Maj. Ken Anderson found a loophole in the secrecy that surrounded his new assignment.

The major, being transferred from Beale Air Force Base, was told his destination was classified and could not be disclosed.

He noted that his orders included the postal zip code for his new base, checked the zip code directory at the post office, and found he was headed for Da Nang, South Vietnam.

No Longer in Oxygen Tent

Blaiberg Near Critical Period

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Groote Schuur Hospital said in a medical bulletin today that Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's third heart transplant patient, "is no longer in the oxygen tent and will be allowed to sit up in bed today with his feet on a chair."

The 58-year-old retired dentist neared what doctors consider to be the beginning of the critical postoperative period—seven days after surgery. However, the bulletin said there were no signs yet that Blaiberg's body was trying to reject the heart of Clive Haupt, 24, who died of a brain hemorrhage.

Haupt's heart was grafted into Blaiberg last Tuesday by Dr. Christiaan Barnard, who also performed the landmark heart transplant operation last month on Louis Washkansky. Washkansky died of pneumonia 18 days after the operation.

Infection Not Evident

No infection is evident in any of Blaiberg's organs so far, the hospital said. His wife, Eileen, was to see him again today but to guard against infection she was expected to speak to him once more through a glass door.

Mrs. Blaiberg said of her first visit with her husband Sunday: "He was looking too wonderful for words. He joked all the time and was very talkative." She added that he looked as healthy as he had five years ago, before his diseased heart began making him look sickly.

The dentist is now on an ordinary diet, but all his food is prepared on a special cooker and sterile utensils are used, the hospital said.

Barnard sent his congratulations to his classmate from the University of Minnesota, Dr. Norman E. Shumway, who performed the world's fourth heart transplant operation at Stanford University Saturday night.

In an interview with the National Broadcasting Corp. shown Saturday night in the United States, Barnard disclosed that arthritis in his hands may limit or even end his surgical career. He said the arthritis has been with him ever since his days as a student in America in the 1950s.

Although he takes drugs for the condition, he said, "my hands are still swollen and my joints are slightly swollen."

The painful condition is a stimulus to bear down on his surgery now, Barnard said, "because I don't know when I'll be completely stopped from doing surgery as a result of the arthritis."

Twins Progressing

In Johannesburg, meanwhile, good progress was reported in another pioneering surgical feat, the separation of Siamese twins at the forehead. The twins—3-month-old girls born two weeks prematurely—were taken off the danger list today at the Johannesburg Children's Hospital and a bulletin said they "continue to make good progress."

The twins Catherine and Shirley O'Hare, were separated Saturday in a five-hour operation. The hospital said they "spent a comfortable and restful night and are now on full normal feeds. Both children are moving their heads and reacting in a normal manner."

It added that "they cry lustily when they are hungry and now behave in the usual manner of children their age."

If the girls survive, it is believed the operation will be recorded as the first in which Siamese twins joined at the forehead have been successfully separated.

Bombing Curb Sought as Test

Percy, McCarthy Agree; Bundy Has Different View

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two leading Senate critics of the Vietnam war have proposed the United States try graduated bombing cutbacks to test North Vietnamese interest in opening peace negotiations.

In separate television interviews, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said Sunday the bombing of population centers could be reduced or eliminated while air attacks are continued on supply lines and infiltration routes in the South.

Long Objective

Waupaca Man Appeals Ruling In Fatal Crash

William E. Hrebik Drove Truck That Killed Appleton Trio

WAUPACA — An appeal of a Municipal Justice Court conviction on a charge of failing to have a vehicle under control has been filed with Circuit Court by attorney for William E. Hrebik, 33, route 3, driver of a truck involved in an accident Oct. 23 in which an Appleton mother and her two children were killed.

Hrebik had been found guilty by Justice George Whalen Dec. 29. A fine of $200 had been stayed until today to allow attorneys time to appeal the conviction.

Killed were Mrs. Robert Littlefield, 24, 531 N. Lawe St. and her children LaWayne, 7, and Tami, 6.

Seven persons testified in the 2½-hour proceedings last week. Wayne Schroeder, Waupaca County patrolman, and other witnesses disclosed that Hrebik's truck was headed south on U.S. 10 near Weyauwega and crossed into the left ditch where the Littlefield car struck the rear of the truck which was protruding into the northbound lane.

Hrebik contended that an unidentified vehicle stopped or slowed down beside a farm tractor traveling along the shoulder of the road forcing him to apply his brakes hurriedly and put the truck into a skid.

Circuit Court will be in session this spring.

Power Squadron Plans Course For Boatmen

Do you know — On what side do you pass an oncoming boat that gives two blasts of its horn?

How to anchor safely?

Topics to be covered include: equipment and government regulations; rules of the road; the mariner's compass; aids to navigation; charts and piloting; manners and customs on shipboard; seamanship and river piloting.

Could Boost Revenues Register of Deeds Fees Standardized by Law

A revised fee schedule for recording papers in the offices of registers of deeds will become effective, state-wide, on Jan. 14.

The new fee schedule, aimed at providing uniformity of recording fees in the state, may hike recording receipts in Outagamie County as much as $5,000 per year, according to Register of Deeds D. P. Peeters. Record-keeping fees, taken in under the old schedule, amounted to about $34,000 annually, Peeters said. He explained that this is the first "complete overhaul" of the recording fee system in 50 years. The change is expected to have the greatest effect on large volume of recording business through the register of deeds office.

Minimum Size Type According to Peeters, the cost of recording papers now varies from $1 (such as for release and assignment of mortgages) to $2.50 for such documents as

Cannery Plans $80,000 Building At Brillion

BRILLION — Larsen Canning Company has announced plans to construct a new $80,000 facility here.

The proposed two-story, 80 by 60 foot cement block building will replace the 46-year-old frame facility recently razed.

Ray Frisby, plant manager, said the structure will house four canning lines, enable faster conversion from peas to beets and a more economical operation.

Snowmobile Theft Reported Sunday

WAUPACA — The sheriff's department is investigating the theft of a snowmobile and trailer from Moore and Jensen Implement Co., route 3, Waupaca.

The theft of the "Ski-Daddler" snowmobile and trailer was reported to the Waupaca County sheriff's office Sunday. It was believed that the equipment valued at $1,150 had been taken on Wednesday.

Outagamie Board Collects Per Diem Total of $43,075

46 Members Also Receive $4,152 For Mileage to Attend Meetings

The 46 members of the Outagamie County Board, exclusive of Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, collected a total of $43,075 in per diem for board and committee meetings during 1967 and $4,152.72 in mileage traveling to and from those meetings. Esler receives a salary of $2,000 as board chairman but does not receive per diem for meetings.

The amounts received by individual supervisors ranged from $1,894.50 for Patrick Heenan, Appleton, a member of both the highway committee, which meets weekly, and the executive committee, down to $175 for Carl Runte, Kaukauna, who was on the board for only part of the year.

Supervisors received $16.50 for a board meeting and $10 for a committee meeting during the year. They also received 8 cents per mile for travel expense.

New Rates Starting in April, after the spring election, supervisors will be paid $22 for a county board meeting, $15 for a committee meeting and 10 cents per mile.

A majority of the board members serve on only one committee. However, one member from each committee also is on the executive committee, which is then broken down into finance and personnel subcommittees. These supervisors, along with highway committee members and Supvs. Bernard Tillman and Emmett Root, who are also on the zoning board, received the greatest amount in per diem.

Board to Consider Port Landing System

Outagamie Supervisors Also Face Issue of Airport Manager, Wages, Building of New University Center

Approval of county-paid installation of an Instrument Landing System (ILS) at the Outagamie County Airport will be asked of the county board Tuesday and, while not related, the airport manager issue is expected to become involved.

Estimated cost of the purchase and installation, along with changes in previously approved runway work, has been put at $200,000. However, county officials indicated that the project can be financed from existing funds from previous airport projects and monies received from the City of Appleton from sale of land at the old airport.

Other major items to come before the board include ratification of wage agreements with most of the unions representing county employees and a request from the health, education and institutions committee for permission to apply for federal aid for construction of a new Fox Valley University Center.

Lease Agreement Underway If the county board okays the additional work at the airport, the county will have met the requirements to enable Kimberly-Clark Corp. airplanes to operate at the airport.

Dr. E. A. Miller Dies Saturday At Clintonville

Practiced Medicine Here 64 Years; Retired in 1960

CLINTONVILLE — Dr. Edward A. Miller, 97, 80 N. Main St., who practiced medicine here for 64 years until his 1960 retirement, died Saturday night after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Eberhardt Funeral Home, Clintonville, with the Rev. Mrs. Arthur J. Snow, pastor of Christ

Dr. E. A. Miller

Congregational Church, officiating. Burial will be in Graceland Cemetery, Clintonville. Masonic services will be conducted for Dr. Miller at 7:30 p.m. today at the funeral home.

He was born April 12, 1870 at Gervais, Ore., and attended medical school at the Rush Medical College, Chicago. He graduated from the medical school in 1896 and came directly to Clintonville. In 1920, Dr. Miller took a two-year post-graduate eye, ear, nose and throat course at Rush Medical College. Upon returning to Clintonville, he specialized in this field.

From 1924 until retirement, Dr. Miller practiced at 62 S. Main St., in a former bank building which he purchased in September, 1964. The Millers deeded the building to the city. Dr. Miller also served as city health officer for a number of years.

50-Year Membership

Dr. Miller was a past member of the American Medical Association and the Wisconsin Medical Association. He was also a long-time member of the Clintonville Masonic Lodge, a member of the board of trustees, and the 36th oldest Mason in the United States. In March, 1965, Dr. Miller was presented with a 50-year membership pin and certificate in the Royal Arch Masons.

He was married in 1910 to Myra Munsert, who preceded him in death last November.

Survivors include a son, a step-daughter, four grandchildren, two step-grandchildren, and five sisters.

3 Appleton Boys Finalists for Annapolis

Three Appleton youths are among six finalists competing for the lone 1968 appointment available to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis from the 8th Congressional District, according to Rep. John W. Brynes, R-Green Bay.

They are David M. Marks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Marks, 503 E. McKinley St.; Paul G. Lakey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lakey, 1523 N. Durkee St., and Ade R. Dillon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Dillon, 342 E. Pershing St.

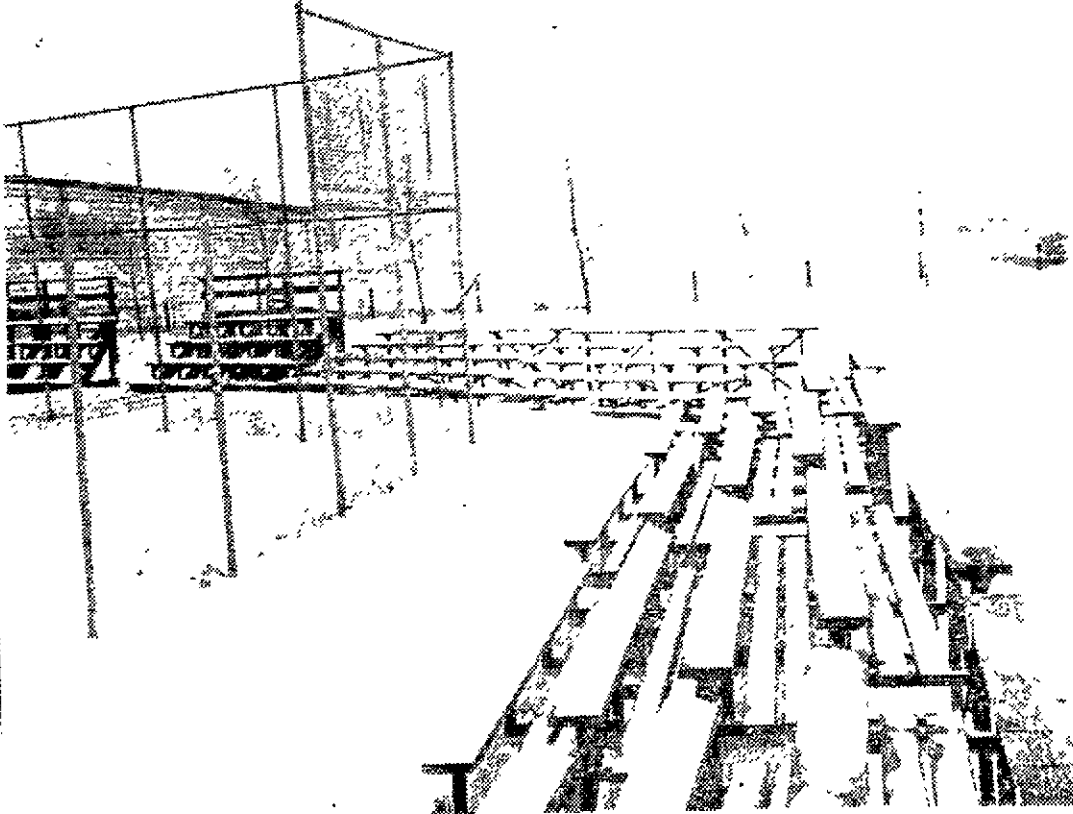

All six contestants received the highest grades in Civil Service examinations conducted last November throughout the district.

Final tests will be given in spring when the competitors will take the regular Naval Academy entrance examinations. The highest ranking candidate automatically receive Brynes' appointment to the academy.

Higher Social Security Benefits To be Started With March Checks

BY MARTIN E. SEGAL
For the Associated Press

By now, almost every one of the 23 million persons receiving Social Security benefits knows that he will get a raise in benefits under the new Social Security law. But when will the increase arrive? And exactly how much will it be? And what other improvements in Social Security and medicare benefits are in the law?

In this and succeeding articles, we'll spell out the answers to these questions and other details of the 1967 Social Security (and medicare) amendments.

First, when do you get the higher amounts? They are due on your February benefit check. Not the check you get in February (that will be for January), but the check you get in the first week of March.

Every Social Security check will be increased by at least 13 per cent; those receiving minimum amounts will receive higher increases. Here are some examples of present and future Social Security benefit amounts:

(Monthly)

If you are now getting: You will get:
$48.00 or less $55.00
$60.00 $67.80
$70.70 $79.90
$80.30 $90.60
$91.00 $102.90
$100.60 $113.70
$110.30 $124.70
$121.00 $136.60
$135.90 $153.60

Benefits to wives, widows, and other dependents and survivors will be similarly increased by at least 13 per cent.

Not a Minimum

The new "minimum" benefit is $55 a month. But — and this is something that troubles a great many readers — $55 a month is the new minimum only for those who earned their own benefits and retired at age 65 or later. Those who retired early — at ages 62 through 64 — could get less than $55 a month. And persons receiving benefits based on a husband's or father's earnings could also get less than the $55 minimum full benefit.

The special Social Security benefits for people age 72 and older who do not qualify for regular benefits (and who do not receive any other government payment) are also increased. The new special age 72 benefit is $40 a month, $60 a month for a man and wife.

The new law does take what some Congressmen have described as a backward step: it limits the amount of benefit a wife can receive on her husband's earnings. The normal wife's benefit taken at age 65 is 50 per cent of her husband's full benefit. The new law puts a dollar limit on this, at $105 a month. This means that a wife's benefit continues to be 50 per cent of her husband's full benefit — unless his benefit is more than $210 a month. A benefit this high will not be available to an ordinary retiree for a long time. This limitation also holds for dependent husbands and remarried widows.

Earn More

The amount of money a Social Security beneficiary can earn without losing benefits is increased in the new law. It was $1,500 a year; it is now $1,680 a year. The monthly limit is also increased: you do not lose benefits in any month in which you earn $140 or less.

On earnings of more than $1,680 a year, beneficiaries lose $1 in benefits for every $2 in earnings up to $2,380; thereafter, $1 in benefits is lost for every $1 in earnings.

This new earnings schedule allows a beneficiary receiving $125 a month from Social Security to earn as much as $3,500 a year — and still receive some benefits that year ($280). A man and wife receiving a total of $200 a month in Social Security benefits can earn as much as $4,500 in a year and still receive some benefits ($180).

The maximum Social Security benefit in the law is $218 a month — $323 for a man and wife both age 65. But this benefit assumes maximum earnings at the new earning base — $7,800 a year. Since no one starts paying taxes on this amount until 1968 — (the previous maximum earnings on which Social Security taxes were paid was $6,600 a year) — no one retiring at age 65 will be able to get $218 a month until the year 2006.

The highest Social Security benefit available this year is $158 a month, $234 for a couple. Here are top Social Security benefits for people retiring in the future — assuming they paid maximum Social Security taxes since 1950. If you retire at age 65 in:

1969	You will get:
1970	$160.50
1980	$185.00
1990	$195.00

Of course, if you work beyond age 65, and continue to pay maximum Social Security taxes, you will be able to get the higher benefit amounts sooner.

More on the new law in the next column.

Use Arm Motions to Play This New Fun-Filled Game

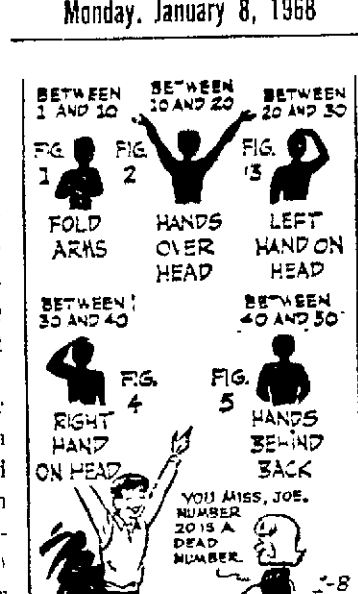

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's game for boys and girls is fun at a party or when there are as few as two players. It is called "Four Mistakes." Four mistakes put a player out of the game. If there are only two players, they switch positions. If there are more than two, the player remaining longest becomes the winner.

The action is based on arm movements in response to commands given by the player who is "It." The commands are numbers which "It" calls out. There are five ranges of numbers which are designated in Figures 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 of the adjoining illustration. A certain arm position is required for each set. All players should be rehearsed before the game begins. Thereafter they must be alert enough to remember what each set of numbers requires.

When "It" calls out any number between 1 and 10 (such as 8), the players must fold their arms as in Figure 1. When he calls out any number between 10 and 20 (example 11), the players must raise their arms over their heads as in Figure 2. If "It" calls out any number between 20 and 30 (such as 27), the players must place their left hands on their heads (Figure 3). Any number between 30 and 40 (such as 37), requires the right hand to be placed on the head (Figure 4). Any number between 40 and 50 means the players must put their hands behind their backs as in Figure 5. The big catch is that the arms are moved only when numbers between the extremes are called. No movement is allowed if "It" calls 1, 10, 20, 30, 40 or 50. These are "dead" numbers. Acting when a "dead" number is called, or making a mistake in the arm position, counts as a mistake. And when a player has made four mistakes he's out. Tomorrow: How to make a spool-hinged binder for comics!

Arm Motions

'Spring Training' Ends For Presidential Primary

WASHINGTON (AP) — "This is the end of the Grapefruit League. The real season is just starting."

Thus George Romney shrugged off the past months in the pre-season race for the Republican presidential pennant and reached for a heavier bat to try to knock Richard M. Nixon out of the park in New Hampshire.

The Grapefruit League, for non-sports fans, is the spring training competition between major league baseball teams before the official, money-on-the-line season opens.

It can be a fantasy time. Burned-out pitchers find their fast ball again—for a couple of weeks. Batters who can't hit their hat wallop dents in the fences. Losers cavort like winners, and winners look like losers.

Early Shower

And George Romney, whose grapefruit season seemed a bit of a lemon, would not mind seeing Richard Nixon give a store-arm performance in New Hampshire and be forced to take an early shower.

The odds are thin indeed, however.

A Romney aide acknowledges the Michigan governor has—in the past seven months of sometimes intense activity—fallen farther behind Nixon.

"There was a poll taken that showed Romney in a more unfavorable position than a poll taken in June," the aide said.

"But it was more a matter of a Nixon gain than a Romney drop."

Reportedly, the private poll shows Nixon approaching a 3 to 1 edge, making gains in the ranks of the undecided.

Romney acknowledges he is an underdog. But he contends the position has an advantage—that he isn't expected to win in New Hampshire so a loss won't be devastating and that the only direction he can go is up.

Down and Out

But there is another direction: down and out. Many feel that will be the only direction left to the jut-jawed Michigan governor if he is clobbered by Nixon in New Hampshire March 12.

Both Romney and Nixon strategists see New Hampshire made to order for the Michigan governor's pavement-pounding, face-to-face campaigning.

"Romney is one of the most effective campaigners in the country," says a Nixon adviser. "and New Hampshire is a small state which lends itself to the type of campaign at which Gov. Romney is expert."

The governor, Romney associates say, will try to shake every hand in the state.

"The New Hampshire primary is crucial," says an adviser to the governor. "It's good it's a small state."

"Not Smiling" Didn't the poll results discourage him? "I'm not smiling broadly," says the Romney man, "but I'm not throwing in the sponge, either."

On the other hand Nixon people obviously don't want to show overconfidence.

"If I were a betting man," says one who apparently prefers football to baseball, "I would say Richard Nixon by one touchdown or less in New Hampshire."

Youth Found Guilty, New Trial Sought

Jury Rules Elroy Barth Contributed to Minors' Delinquency

A 12-member County Court jury heard a day and a half of testimony and deliberated more than two hours Thursday before finding Elroy Barth, 19, 721 N. Morrison St., guilty of contributing to the delinquency of two 15-year-old girls on Sept. 20.

However, Barth's attorney moved to set aside the verdict because of what he said was a lack of evidence to support the finding. He moved for a new trial.

Judge Urban P. Van Susteren said he would hear arguments today from Barth's attorney and Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer. Barth is free on bond.

The youth was charged following investigation by Appleton police who said he transported two runaway Appleton girls to various parts of Outagamie, Shawano, and Winnebago Counties after they left their homes.

Police said that Barth also took the girls and a 19-year-old Appleton youth to a house that was being razed in Menasha. The girls reportedly spent the night in the house.

Barth had been charged with encouraging a probationer, the 19-year-old Appleton youth, to violate the terms of his probation. However, Van Susteren dismissed that charge on a motion by Barth's attorney, before it went to the jury. The probationer was under supervision of the State Department of Health and Social Services, but he since was sentenced to 360 days in the Outagamie County Jail after Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered his probation revoked.

One of the 15-year-old girls involved in the incident was found delinquent and was placed under supervision of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services on Sept. 25.

Van Susteren was named to preside at Barth's trial after an affidavit of prejudice was filed against Keller, before whom Barth pleaded innocent Sept. 25.

Missionary to Africa, Featured Speaker at Assembly of God Rally

The Church of the Open Bible, Assembly of God, will have the Rev. Marlin L. Lund, a missionary to South Africa, as guest speaker at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Lund

Tuesday, The Rev. Mr. Lund will speak on the literature needs of that country during this special missions rally.

Commenting about the literacy rate, the missionary said there has been a sharp rise in the last few years, in particular due to the increase in the number of published books in the vernacular.

The Rev. Mr. Lund is a graduate of North Central Bible College in Minnesota and during the past 19 years has been engaged in the production and distribution of Christian literature in South Africa.

Slides, curios and displays will be shown during the rally, which is open to the public.

Official Says Rural Areas Favored Cities Are 'Hamstrung' by State

Wisconsin Legislatures — both present and past — were accused by an Appleton official today of "burying their collective heads in the sands of time" rather than recognizing the plight of cities.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen, who will testify later in the Appleton before the Tarr Task Force, has made his position known in a seven-page brief to condemned for occupancy be filed with the panel headed by Dr. Curtis Tarr, Lawrence University president.

"There is no other creature of the state that is charged with as many responsibilities pertaining rural assessment policies and procedures and cited examples to public health, welfare and safety and yet handicapped and hamstrung as are cities," Rasmussen declared.

In addition to attacking the state's archaic annexation laws and tax-sharing formulas, Rasmussen made recommendations to cope with the many urban problems he cited.

"The state has virtually removed all responsibility for education from the rural forms of government except in those areas where there are no urban governments to shift the responsibility to," Rasmussen asserted.

He also contended the state has enacted anti-pollution legislation which focuses on the cities' industries while residences within the unincorporated urban fringes are permitted to dump effluents in roadside ditches, which in turn drain into natural water courses.

"The state through its agencies is empowered to order cities to expand their waste treatment facilities," Rasmussen continued, "while at the same time patting the heads of the urbanized towns for installing package treatment plants and inadequate collection systems that lack capacity to serve anticipated growth."

Rasmussen added that if it is not the policy of the state to deal with cities in a more stringent manner than with rural areas — then the administration of some state agencies "has certainly been over-zealous in creating this impression."

"Where has the state issued an order to install sanitary collection and treatment facilities?" he asked.

He urged agencies to take no further action or give approval of federal or state grants or permits until citizens and sportsmen could be heard on what Achterberg claimed, is water diversion on the part of Appleton.

Mayor George Buckley's reaction to Achterberg's action was the comment: "The best thing is ignore him and that's what we intend to do."

Have No Effect

City Atty. David Geenen said he felt Achterberg's latest move would not affect Appleton's project. "Public hearings were held by the appropriate agency, others were contacted and orders were issued to proceed with the project," Geenen said.

The general reaction of the city officials concerned with the water project is that Achterberg's action "is passe."

Last week U.S. Senator Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) announced a federal agency had assured him Appleton will receive two grants totaling $1.5 million for the pipeline and water plant addition projects.

It was also indicated the entire project had been thoroughly screened and claims of a water diversion were ruled out on the basis of fact.

Petition Seeks New Hearing On Pipeline

Appleton Officials Doubt if Action Will Affect Project

A Neenah millworker who has been crusading against Appleton's Lake Winnebago water-tapping project said today he has petitioned the state to conduct another public hearing.

Virgil Achterberg, 218 W. North Water St., said copies of the petition he and others circulated since last fall were sent to an estimated 30 federal, state and local officials.

He said the petition for a hearing has been filed with the State Department of Resource Development at Madison.

In his news release, Achterberg at first indicated the petitions contained 1,000 signatures but crossed out the last zero. Contacted by a reporter this morning, Achterberg said the petitions had about 400 signers from a three-county (Outagamie, Calumet and Winnebago) area.

Asks Hearings

Achterberg personally asked the state agency to hold hearings at the Fox Valley University Center and at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

He urged agencies to take no further action or give approval of federal or state grants or permits until citizens and sportsmen could be heard on what Achterberg claimed, is water diversion on the part of Appleton.

Mayor George Buckley's reaction to Achterberg's action was the comment: "The best thing is ignore him and that's what we intend to do."

William Clune, 73, Former Kaukauna Tavern Operator, Dies

KAUKAUNA — William G. Clune, 73, 142½ E. Third St., a retired tavern operator here, died Saturday morning after a brief illness.

He was a past director of the Outagamie Tavern League and a member of the American Legion at Wrightstown.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Mary Catholic Church, Kaukauna. Friends may call at the Greenwood Funeral Home after 2 p.m. today.

Forgery Trial Goes To Circuit Court

OSHKOSH — County Judge James V. Sitter Friday ordered Robert J. Hansel Jr., 21, of 605 School Court, Menasha, bound over to circuit court to answer to a charge of forgery.

Hansel is accused of endorsing and cashing a $225 Bergstrom Paper Co. payroll check June 15 at the First National Bank, Neenah. The check was made out to "R. G. Green." It was one of eight checks reported stolen earlier the same day from a foreman's desk at the company's plant on U.S. 41.

Hansel was arraigned in County Court Branch 3 Dec. 4. He has been free on $5,000 bond since Dec. 6.

Rasmussen claimed another discount store — on a site of about 17 acres — carried a 1966 land assessment of only $3,000 per acre, or less than $500 per acre.

"This 1966 value preceded the sale of the site and is indicative of the favored position held by the land speculators in urban fringe areas," Rasmussen declared.

He said such assessments were not unique to the annexation, along with adopting Buchanan and cited several other case studies of property taxes for services not rendered to the rural areas.

Rasmussen said he cited the inequities for several reasons, "The state does not adjust the rural assessments often enough claiming the failure in the fair to keep them current and equitable to the urban areas," he continued. "Further, it is inconceivable that only urban land values increase."

To substantiate his assertion, Rasmussen singled out actual land transactions which have been taken place in the area.

He said, for example, a 10-acre parcel in the Town of Buchanan was sold in 1965 for a total price of $36,500, and was taxed at $60 for the 1964 calendar year. The same land after the sale was annexed to Appleton and was taxed approximately $900 under its newly established market value.

Rasmussen said lands on West College Avenue (Town of Grand Chute) have been selling for as high as $30,000 per acre, some, if not all counties in but claimed the 38-acre site distributing the tax burden by

38 Weekend Accidents on Slippery Appleton Streets

Speed too fast for the condition of streets and failure to yield at unmarked intersections were contributing factors in the majority of the 38 accidents on Appleton streets Friday through early today, police said this morning.

The flurry of accidents resulted in only a few minor injuries. Unreported in earlier accident stories were injuries to Robert F. VanHandel, 33, 216 N. Rogers St., Kimberly, and Joseph L. Christman, 19, 1816 N. Eugene St.

According to police records, 15 of the accidents occurred Friday, 11 Saturday, 10 Sunday, and two early today.

Christman was injured about 1 a.m. Sunday when his 1967 auto went out of control while northbound on Drew Street, near Roosevelt Street. The car was struck a tree in front of 1702 N. Drew St. Police said that Christman suffered a forehead laceration.

Van Handel suffered mouth and face cuts and several loosened teeth when his car went into a ditch along the 2400 block of N. Newberry Street about 2:30 a.m. today. He was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by squad car.

He told police he was east-bound on Newberry when he had to swerve to avoid a car on the wrong side of the road.

Freed Youth Faces Trial

NEENAH — A 17-year-old Menasha youth, who pleaded innocent Dec. 29 to the charge which netted him a prison term 3½ years ago, will appear before Judge Herbert Mueller Tuesday afternoon in a new trial for stealing a mini-bike back in 1964.

He was one of two Twin City youths who were freed recently from the Wisconsin State Reformatory at Green Bay on the Supreme Court's Gault Decision.

The landmark case held that juveniles have the same constitutional guarantees and rights to counsel as provided for adults in the Miranda and Escobedo decisions.

The other youth, a 16-year-old Neenah boy, pleaded guilty last Wednesday before Judge James Sarres to charges of breaking and entering a home and of stealing a stop watch more than two years ago. Judge Sarres found the youth delinquent on both charges in the new trial, but delayed sentencing until Jan. 17.

A National Malaise?

As the nation enters the year 1968 there is concern being expressed from several quarters about a malaise, that has seemed to afflict the country especially during the last year.

James Reston writes of "the yearning for unity and purpose" which has escaped us recently. The National Committee for an Effective Congress warns in a recent report that "the country may now be on the brink of a third trauma, a depression of the national spirit." Theologian Harvey Cox goes further and suggests that the country as a whole may be "approaching a nervous breakdown."

The symptoms are there for all of us to see but exactly what sort of an illness they proclaim is more difficult to determine. There is the widespread dissent over the war and the inability of anyone to explain satisfactorily why we are so involved. There is the unrest in our cities and so far no solution before the next long hot summer. There is growing racial strife, a hardening of opinions on all sides, an increase in calls for violence by both black and white. There is the "new morality" which is interpreted by some to be no morality at all, the appalling growth of drug addiction, what appears to be a new drive toward self-destruction in turning to LSD and similar hallucinogens, the impersonality of our great institutions, the frustrations and lack of identity for the individual American. We find ourselves disliked and suspected abroad and we are beginning to dislike and suspect ourselves at home.

Cox suggests that we are trying to do too many things in too many directions and that we must choose between technical efficiency and popular participation: to start to determine where we want to go instead of how we are going to get there. He suggests that our fear of communism has become paranoia and that "we have a mentality of scarcity" which sees our own affluence disappearing if other peoples improve their standards. Cox states that

Arbitration Instead of Strikes

The statement by I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union, that strikes are "outmoded" and should be replaced in certain industries by arbitration or some other dispute settling method, made headlines recently, and well it should have.

The Steelworkers had been working with steel industry management on a plan to arbitrate unresolved issues in their upcoming 1968 negotiations for new contracts. And while the plan has been shelved temporarily, Abel said it was "far from dead."

Arbitration has been generally accepted by both labor and industry as a method of solving disputes arising over interpretation of existing contracts, but both labor and management have generally opposed arbitration as a means of settling disputes over arriving at new contracts. And for that reason Abel's statement was most significant.

Under the plan which was considered by the Steelworkers, both sides would

Law and Order in Mississippi

A federal court has sentenced seven men found guilty last October of conspiracy to kill three civil rights workers in Mississippi. But what has really been convicted is law and order in Mississippi.

The seven were convicted of taking part in the Ku Klux Klan plot which ended in the deaths of the three civil rights workers. Two received ten year sentences, two more got six years and the remaining three will go to prison for three years. Eleven others charged by the federal government were found not guilty.

It has often been argued that the sentence for killing a police official should be more severe than murder in general because such a killing is a blow against law

Looking Backward
On 'Stopping the Newspaper'

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 11, 1868.

A certain man hit his toe against a pebble and fell headlong to the ground.

He was vexed and under the influence of anger and self-sufficiency, he kicked Mother Earth quite saucily. With impertable gravity, he looked to see the earth itself dissolved and come to naught. But the earth remained and only his poor foot was injured in the encounter.

This is the way of man. An article in a newspaper touched him in a weak spot, and straightway he sends to stop his paper. With great complacency he looks to see if it shall cease to be.

Poor fool, he has only hit his toe against a world that does not perceptibly feel the shock and injured to a slight extent none but himself.

25 YEARS AGO

Out of respect for Governor-elect Orland S. Loomis, who died the previous month before

"white people in America must begin now to do the right thing vis-a-vis the victims of our racist history, not in order to expiate our guilt but because justice and restitution require it." And if we can still joke about our ills, Cox says, maybe we'll survive.

But for many concerned Americans, there is little to joke about. The hope, it seems to us, lies once again in the younger generations who will themselves make serious mistakes as they grow older.

The "drop out" generation of course will not solve anything by simply dropping out and this is where the apathy, the drugs, the you-made-it-you-sleep-in-it attitude is really serious. But there are signs that the majority of young people are not in this category. The students on our campuses who want a relevant education, those who spend their time working in the urban ghettos, who sign up for Vista and the Peace Corps and innumerable smaller less publicized active groups, are examples even if they don't trust anyone over thirty. So, too, are the eighteen and nineteen and twenty-year-olds who make up the bulk of our fighting forces in Vietnam. Whether or not they understand the war, they are willing to risk their lives for a job they feel convinced has to be done somehow. They hate it, they gripe, they come home as soon as their year is up, but they are there atoning for the errors of their elders which got them into the mess.

But this generation is not going to be fooled by gimmicks or slogans anymore. And perhaps more than anything else in the nation now, we need leaders with the vision, courage and integrity to inspire innovation and stimulate activities along new paths away from the visible signs of our affluence which have only contributed to our spiritual aches and pains.

The nation recovered from its other two great illnesses, the Civil War and the Great Depression. The initiative, determination and faith which built and maintained this nation in a largely hostile world are needed in just as great amounts today.

agree before bargaining starts that any unresolved issues would go to a neutral third party for final and binding decision.

"Sooner or later we are going to have to face up to the fact that it is getting harder and harder to call a strike in a basic industry like steel in this country," Abel commented. "And we should start thinking now about alternatives, which is just what we are doing."

There has been increasing discussion of Congressional action to impose mandatory arbitration on contract negotiations in those industries where a strike imperils the national welfare. Congress in fact did so act in the threatened nationwide railroad strike three years ago.

But the tradition of free collective bargaining in the United States is a strong one, and there would be great resistance in many quarters to government-imposed arbitration on any general basis. For that reason too the willingness of the powerful Steelworkers Union to explore a system of voluntary arbitration is most encouraging.

and order itself. In the same way when a police official is convicted of a crime, it is a major threat to justice. One of the convicted in Mississippi was the chief deputy sheriff, Cecil Price, who was charged with having arrested the three rights workers and turning them over to the Klan lynch mob. One of those found not guilty was the sheriff of Neshoba County.

Despite the evidence produced by the federal witnesses which led to the convictions, there has been no effort made in the state of Mississippi to charge any of the suspected with murder. This default of responsibility is an even more serious blow to justice than the participation in a murder plot by a deputy sheriff.

he could take office, the pomp and circumstance usually surrounding the inaugural of a Wisconsin governor were deleted as the new officials took over. Lt. Gov. Walter S. Goodland officially became governor at noon that day. Informal receptions were held in the offices of the various Republican state officials, all of whom were re-elected except retiring Gov. Julius P. Heil. The successor to Loomis, who defeated Heil in the previous election, was decided by the Wisconsin State Supreme Court.

Gov. Goodland, 80, was the son of John Goodland Sr., of Appleton, a former railway station agent who started learning the law in his 40s and then opened a law office which led to his election later as a circuit judge.

The young Goodland attended Appleton High School and Lawrence College, then started looking for a teaching job to support him while he studied for the law. The future governor taught at Seymour one winter, then went to Stephenville and finally to South Kaukauna School. He was to give up all idea of the law when businessmen in Wakefield, Mich., persuaded him to start a community newspaper. Since early day papers were vehicles of political opinion, journalism swiftly led him into politics.

"This job is just one dang containment policy after another."

On the Right
Homosexuals Should Not be in Sensitive Government Positions

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

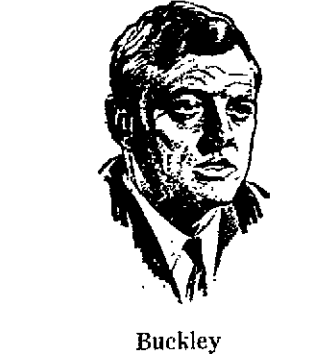

Christianity and Crisis is a left-leaning highbrow journal of opinion of which the principal figure over the years has been Reinhold Niebuhr, who has now yielded to the renowned Dr. John C. Bennett of the Union Theological Seminary of Columbia University. A recent issue of C & C makes two interesting observations concerning Ronald Reagan, Drew Pearson, Homosexuality, American politics, and morality.

The first takes note of the incessant teasing of Ronald Reagan following Drew Pearson's exposure of the alleged homosexuality of a Reagan assistant. You will recall that when asked whether it were true, Governor Reagan announced flatly that it wasn't. There were those at that time (myself among them) who thought this precisely the right answer to give, because a public official ought not to find himself in a position of revealing the reasons for the dismissal of an employee provided that employee has not acted unlawfully. But others worked themselves up into a considerable moral lather over Governor Reagan's alleged dissimulation, and somehow, out of the whole mess, Drew Pearson emerged, as usual, unscathed. He had been proven right, had he not?

MORAL IMPLICATION

Christianity and Crisis confesses itself delighted at the embarrassment of Ronald Reagan. "... But our partisan politics must not hide a more fundamental moral implication of this recent political smear job. We must give the Pearsons of this land no applause or comfort for these so-called 'revelations' about a politician's fitness for high office. The columnist has used one of the most despicable devices known to political warfare — playing upon the prejudices and ignorance of the people to turn them against his opponent. It is no more acceptable when Drew Pearson attacks a conservative politician than when the late Senator Joseph McCarthy" etc. etc. "One of the things that makes libertarian mouthings so incredulous to people is that when McCarthy-like tactics are used by conservatives it is immoral, but when liberals use it against conservatives it becomes 'political honesty.' Some consistency in indignation helps make principles a bit more believable even to political foes."

So far so good. A true liberal, by the definition of Sir Arnold Lunn, is the man who defends the rights of conservatives. A true anything, according to my definition, is the man who despises the practices of Drew Pearson.

But then Christianity and Crisis goes on to deplore the continuing bias against homosexuals in government. "Hasn't the time come in American life," the editorial asks, "when we should seriously re-examine our attitude and ethical stance on this problem, since this makes many decent easy prey for blackmail and intimidation?" When he faced the press, Mr. Reagan angrily denied there had been any incidents or problems. He would have better served his own interests and the moral atmosphere of the nation if he had done something more than bluster and bleat. It is to be hoped that the church can muster the integrity and the courage to challenge the public climate that turns sexual deviation into criminality and victimization.

"WAY OF LIFE"
The editorial cites a figure of the National Institute of Mental Health which asserts that there are 2.5 million persons in America "for whom homosexuality is a way of life." The argument is that in the light of the prevalence of homosexuality, the bias should be removed. And, the bias having been removed, the blackmail potential diminishes, and so therefore does the public hazard in giving employment to homosexuals.

The argument is of course too schematic. And anyway, it is not merely on account of the susceptibility to blackmail that homosexuals are kept out of critical government positions. It is because homosexuality is a unnatural condition. That, in any case, is the governing postulate, which has not been successfully undermined, not even by such skillful advocates of bisexuality as Paul Goodman and Gore Vidal. If the condition is unnatural, then the presumption is against the emotional balance of the addict, a good reason for declining to situate him in the clutch of the republic.

And then too, the disappearance of sanctions against homosexuality, which are embodied in the security laws prohibiting homosexuals from working in sensitive agencies, means the weakening of those normative sexual sanctions which are the most efficacious agents of reform within the homosexual community. The tendency of easygoing Christians to consider that anything that exists should be institutionalized, and then baptized, is the same tendency that accounts for the toleration, and even the approval, of Drew Pearson.

Any Further State Action on Housing Law Some Time Off

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Some of the liberal critics of the state-house political record during the last year of Republican legislative control are complaining about the failure of the state to enact a truly comprehensive and fool-proof fair housing law.

Some of the more articulate

of the civil rights leaders are saying that they will put pressure on Governor Warren Knowles to force the Legislature to return to consider and act on the problems of minority groups, especially the civil rights demands of the growing Milwaukee Negro minority that have been so conspicuously involved in the political news of the last year.

An obvious objective, contained in several bills before the last Legislature, is a revision of the 1965 state fair housing act to remove its considerable number of exemptions from the sanctions against discrimination in housing on the grounds of race, color, creed or national origin.

It is quite true that the majority party showed less interest in that bill than in many others and far less than in the self-declared objective of keeping the state budget in balance. But it needs to be said also that the average legislator was bound to have some doubts about the popularity of such legislation in view of the reluctant attitude of the City of Milwaukee administration, and more particularly, the recalcitrance of Milwaukee Democrats in the Legislature elected as liberals.

MILWAUKEE BALKS

Some of the more objective observers in Milwaukee who watched the record of the Legislature and who favor "open housing" on a literal basis have already noted that the Milwaukee legislative delegation was primarily responsible for the Legislature's uncertainty about improving the 1965 state law. Indeed, late in the session last month, when there was a move to force

Computer Is Really A Stupid Machine

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Both the abilities and the limitations of computers were strikingly displayed in the first international chess match between two electronic brains — one in Soviet Russia, the other in the United States.

In a four-board match lasting one year, the Russian computer won by a score of 3-

Harris

1 The match was set up in Moscow and at Stanford University to compare the level of programs for computers, which were programmed by chess-playing scientists in each country.

What the match demonstrated was nothing about the relative capacities of the computers, but a lot about the relative chess-playing skills in Russia and the United States. Obviously, the programming could be no better than the chess abilities of the men in charge of the computers.

And Russia, of course, is the pre-eminent chess country in the world. Children there learn to play chess before they can read; the game is offered in every school, much like football or baseball here. A champion is a national hero, subsidized by the state and given lavish expenses to travel abroad and represent his country. In the U.S., needless to say, chess is a forlorn stepchild of the society, regarded as an esoteric "intellectual" pastime.

But this is all by the way. What is important to remember is that chess-playing ma-assembly action on a stronger bill, the effort failed only because a majority of the Milwaukee legislator's opposed it.

Only seven Milwaukeeans, out of 25, voted in favor of the objective. It is worth noting, moreover, that one of the opposing votes came from a new member of the lower house who was elected in a recent special election in which fair housing was the principal issue discussed.

Nor were the Milwaukee representatives in the Senate any more anxious to have the state act. One of them, in fact, during a debate on a related measure, declared, with candor even if not with general approval of his colleagues, that "nobody in private wants an open housing law." Given the state senator's connections in Milwaukee, the quotation is worth remembering.

The Milwaukee city administration for months stood opposed to an open housing ordinance of its own contriving. Finally, when the pressure became urgent, it objected that there were doubts about its right to legislate in the field — in spite of the fact that other municipalities, including the capital city of Madison, had done so without hint of legal challenge anywhere.

REPEAT ACTION

It was at that point, perhaps with a pardonable desire to exploit the situation politically, that Sen. Jerris Leonard, the Republican Senate leader, introduced his own bill to make it clear that any municipality can enact any degree of anti-discrimination housing it chooses. It breezed through, whereupon the City of Milwaukee finally enacted an ordinance which adds not a syllable to the law already in effect under state authority.

An open housing statute applying statewide, without loopholes, may come in Wisconsin some day. But it cannot be forecast now.

Too many of the principal advocates represent districts where the issue is academic. Too many of the representatives of districts where the issue is present, and acute, and relevant, as in downtown Milwaukee, apparently can declare their opposition with impunity — if not with political gain to themselves.

What is needed for action is convincing evidence of the people's will, and that has not yet been provided.

chines, like all computers, can be no better than the men who program them. There is a famous computer slogan, "GIGO," which stands for "Garbage In, Garbage Out" — that is, if you program the machine with junk, it will turn out junk.

A computer is essentially a stupid thing, not the massive superbrain we are beginning to venerate. As someone has said, a computer can make a mistake in one second that it would take a thousand men a thousand years to make. One slight deviation, and the machine can magnify it by a millionfold.

Some computers are self-correcting, and no doubt much more sophisticated hardware is in the offing, so that glaring mistakes will no longer be possible. But the basic fact remains that no machine can be much superior than what is put into it: A musician could program a machine to turn out times, but only a Mozart could program it to turn out anything resembling a Mozartian quartet.

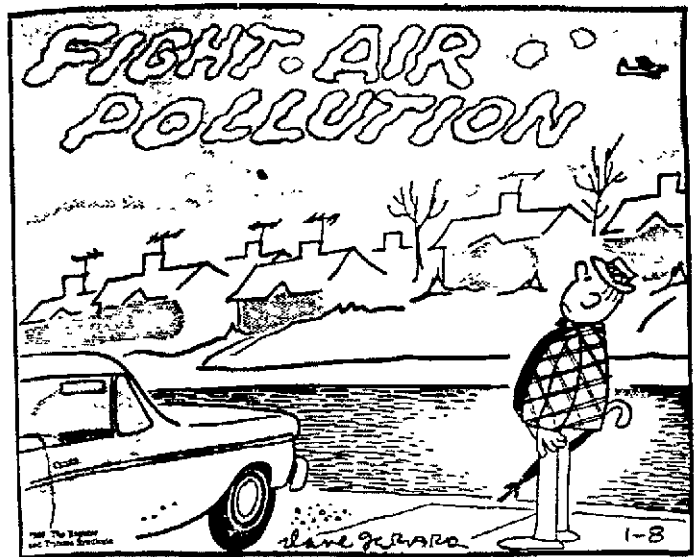

There is no substitute for the human mind, and if we rely on the computer to solve our problems, we are abdicating our most precious possession — the freedom of thought. The way to beat the Russians at chess is to encourage better chess-players at home, not to construct a machine that will only reflect our national inadequacy.

Servicemen Opposed Iwo Jima Scheduled For Return to Japan

By BOB POOS Associated Press Writer

IWO JIMA (AP) — Rusting, crumbling landing craft still rest on one beach. Spent rifle and machine-gun cartridges litter the ground. Huge Japanese cannon, knocked from their mounts by counterartillery batteries, lie askew.

This is Iwo Jima, hallowed in U.S. Marine Corps annals as a place of blood, death and glory, where that corps met one of its sternest tests.

Iwo lies peaceful and almost forgotten in the vast reaches of the Central Pacific, its sulphur pits bubbling and reeking. The eight-square-mile island is inhabited only by cats and dogs gone wild, birds, lizards, poisonous centipedes — and a tiny garrison of American airmen and Coast Guard sailors.

Still under American control,

Whooping Crane Dies After Being Shot by Hunter

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — One of the 48 whooping cranes known to exist in the wild died last week after it was rushed here from the Arkansas National Wildlife Range where it had been shot by a hunter.

The bird, an adult whooper, suffered numerous wounds from a shotgun blast, a source here said, and was virtually beyond help when it arrived at a veterinary hospital.

A spokesman for the Sport Fisheries and Wildlife Service of the Department of Interior said the bird was shot by one of three hunters hunting snow geese near the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge at Austwell, Tex.

The near extinct species winters each year at the Aransas refuge on the Gulf of Mexico Coast. Officials said there were 39 adult cranes and nine young ones at the refuge this year.

Historic Chicago Hospital Moves To New Quarters

CHICAGO (AP) — Historic Mercy Hospital, where victims of the Civil War, the Chicago fire and the Haymarket riot received treatment, has moved into new quarters.

The last patient was transferred in frigid cold weather last week from the old red brick structure, Chicago's oldest hospital to a white concrete-and-glass building across the street.

The $26-million hospital has a 517-bed capacity, compared with 350 in the old complex.

The hospital was established in 1850 by the Sisters of Mercy in a frame building along the Lake Michigan shoreline and has occupied five locations since then. Parts of the soon-to-be razed structure date back to 1869.

After the attempted assassination of President Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, he was brought to Mercy Hospital from Milwaukee for treatment of a gunshot wound.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
I S L O N G F E L L O W

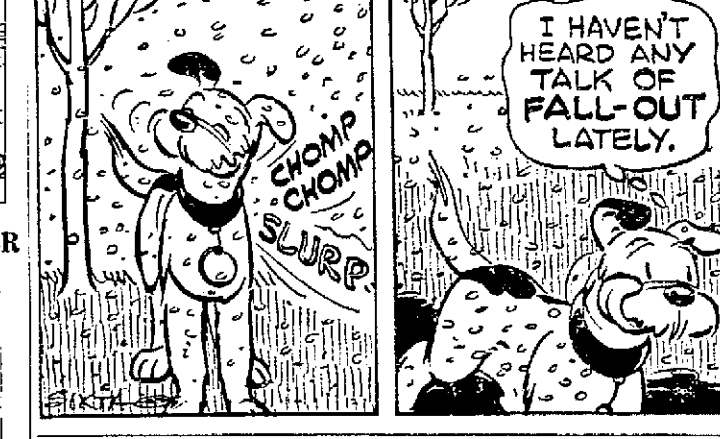

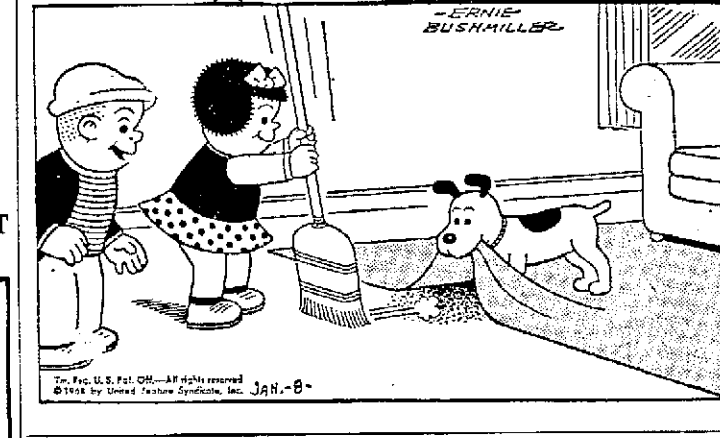

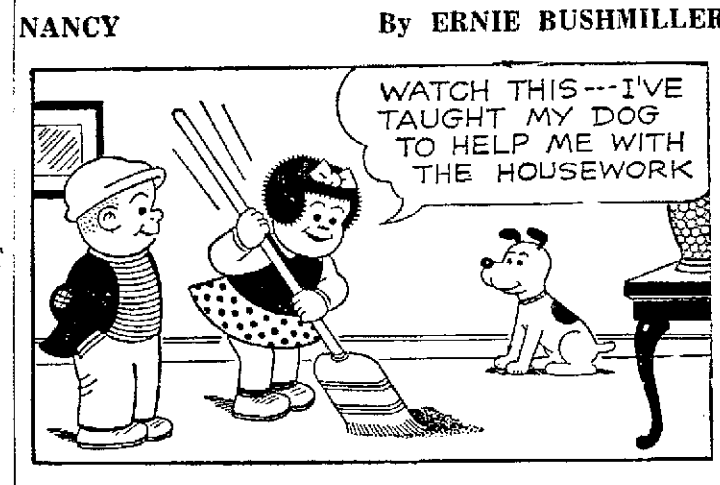

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ten years ago — An airliner crash near Bolivar, Argentina, killed 62 persons.

Five years ago — Government sources said President John F. Kennedy would ask Congress for funds for fallout shelters for schools, hospitals and welfare institutions.

One year ago — New border fighting flared between Israel and Syria.

Red Cross Shelters New York Fire Victims

NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-one persons burned out in 14 fires over the weekend in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens were given shelter in hotels, the Greater New York Branch of the American Red Cross reported Sunday night.

The ages of those sheltered ranged from a woman of 94 to a boy of one year.

Pilot Misjudges Ice, Watches Plane Sink

CAMBRIDGE, N.Y. (AP) — John Sherin of Greenwich, N.Y., said he thought the ice on Hedges Lake near this northeastern New York village was thick enough for a landing.

Sherin brought down his single engine, ski-equipped plane onto the ice, then climbed out and walked toward shore. He and his passenger looked back to see the plane sink slowly to its wing-mounts.

The accident happened Saturday and efforts to extricate the craft were unsuccessful because sub-zero temperatures froze the water around the plane.
